POLITICAL NOTES.

—The Richmond Whig advocates the choice of Mr. Larmer as Speaker of the House of Representatives, on the ground that "he has experience, is dilligent and energetic, and knows everybody and everything."

—A rare case of political self-abnegation has just occurred of Portage City, Wisconsin. The candidates for alderman of the Second ward were the editor of the village paper and the town druggist. The editor magnanimously voted for his opponent and elected him, the druggist getting 81 votes out of 160.

—The Indianapolis Journal says: We defy any person to point to a single act of practical reform ever accomplished by the Democratic party. Its instincts are all selfish, and its natural tendency is toward corruption. This city never had so inefficient or so expensive a goverment as during the last year of Democratic reform rule.

—Those scrupulous New Hampshire Democrats who insist that votes for "Natt" Head shall not be counted in the canvass for State Senate in the Third Senatorial district, are exceedingly urgent in claiming that votes "Frank" Jones in the First Congressional district should be recognized as legal. Heads, I win; tails, you lose. Don't you see?

—A Georgia Republican writes to the New York Times: 'No intelligent man can remain long in the South and not learn that the "irrepressible conflict" has not wholly ended. It is a great mistake to suppose that the leaders of the slave power will not attempt to control the labor of the negro because slavery has been abolished. The name has been abolished, but not the thing.

—We have been waiting two or three months to hear something from the Democratic "reform" papers in regard to the grand million dollar steal of the Democratic State Treasurer of Georgia. He was not a carpet-bagger; he was not a 'nigger;' he was a high-toned Southern gentleman. We call the attention of the shouters about Republican rascality to this little item. Perhaps it is not worth their attention!—Buffalo Express.

—Here we have it outspoken and right from the heart. The St. Louis Republican, Democratic organ of Missouri—in a recent editorial said: "To-day we firmly believe a vast majority of the Northern people cherish a stronger and more sincere regard for the rebel Lee, sleeping in his Virginia grave, than for loyal Grant, enthroned at the White House." Democracy is getting on very rapidly. Men of the North, loyal soldiers who saved the Union, how do you like it?

—A Georgia correspondent of the New York 'Times' says: 'It is undoubtedly true that a majority of our educated and wealthy citizens still believe in slavery—that capital should control labor, and they intend it shall. It is an error to suppose that because the war is over the contest has ended. Republican leaders in the South must boldly meet and oppose, step by step, the able and desperate men who inaugurated the rebellion and fought to establish a government built upon slavery.'

REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.

The Republicans of Pennsylvania are requested to assemble, by their delegates, in the Opera House in the city of Lancaster, at noon, on WEDNESDAY, MAY 26, 1875, for the purpose of nominating candidates for Governor and State Treasurer.

Each Senatorial and Representative district will be entitled to the same representation therein as they are entitled to under the present appointment of Senators and Representatives in the Legislature.

By order of the Republican State Committee.

RUSSEL ERRET, Chairman.

A. WILSON NORRIS, Sec'y.

MAGNIFICENT OFFER!

Sewing Machines Given Away.—Subscribe for The Bellefonte Republican, the Liveliest and Best Paper in Centre Co. A Sixty Dollar Machine of the Best Make in the World for 30 Names.

A very liberal contract, which we have just completed with the Weed Sewing Machine Company, will enable us, we hope, to place their celebrated machines in many families throughout the country. So fine an opportunity to secure a first-class sewing machine seldom occurs. May we not expect the friends of this paper to make an earnest, united effort to extend greatly its circulation, and thus help to increase its influence? We will liberally reward those who work for us. Reader, can you not form a club in your neighborhood and secure this sewing machine premium? A few hours of well-directed effort will obtain it. Postmasters in the smaller towns and villages can, with a little thought and effort, easily send us the requisite number of names. Has the parsonage a sewing machine? If not, call upon a few ladies and gentlemen of the congregation. Tell them your plan and ask them to help you. In the congregation 30 names can, with little difficulty, be secured. Send us the $60 and we will forward for one year this paper to each of the 30 subscribers, which will pay them the full value of their subscriptions, and in addition, we will make a present, to any person you may designate, of a beautiful sixty dollar Sewing Machine. How easily a club may be formed in the Masonic or Odd Fellows or Temperance Society, or in the Grange? Is there not depending upon your society some poor widow to whom a sewing machine would be for years to come a blessing? Pass the subscription paper. Thirty persons subscribing for this journal at $2.00 each, will secure for themselves, without any extra charge, the paper for one year, and a most valuable present for some needy family. TRY IT, FRIENDS. DON'T WAIT! BEGIN THE WORK AT ONCE! Send us word that you have undertaken the formation of such a club.

Remember, the machines are warranted to be perfectly new, latest improved, and in perfect order.

BARNUM AGAIN.

In a temperance address at his Hippodrome in Philadelphia, the other day, Mr. Barnum said:

"I will undertake, and give bonds for the fulfillment of the contract, that if the city of Philadelphia will stop selling liquor, and give me as much as was expended here for liquor last year, to run the city next year, I will pay all the city expenses; no person living within her borders shall pay taxes; there shall be no insurance on property; a good dress and suit shall be given to every poor boy, girl, man and woman; all the educational expenses shall be paid; a barrel of flour shall be given to every needy and worthy person, and I will clear half a million or a million dollars myself by the operation. [Cries of "hurrah!"

CONFERREE MEETING.

The Republican conferrees of the Senatorial district, comprising the counties of Centre, Clearfield and Clinton, met at the Bush House in Bellefonte, on Thursday, May 6th, for the purpose of selecting a delegate to represent said district in the Republican State Convention which meets in Lancaster on the 26th inst.

The representation from the several counties was as follows:

Centre—Jas. H. Rankin, Isaac D. Miller and John T. Johnston.

Clearfield—John F. Irwin and A. W. Graham.

Clinton—John W. Harris.

On motion, John W. Harris, of Clinton, was chosen Chairman, and John T. Johnston, of Centre, Secretary of the meeting. On taking the chair the president delivered a very appropriate and eloquent speech, stating the object of the present meeting, and at the same time admonishing Republicans to arouse themselves for the coming campaign. The following resolution was then offered and unanimously adopted:

Resolved, that the Delegate this day selected to represent this District in the next Republican State Convention, is hereby instructed to support and vote for the re-nomination of His Excellency John F. Hartranft, for Governor, and John B. Linn, of Bellefonte, as the first, and Henry Rawle, of Erie, as the second choice of the District, for State Treasurer.

A vote was then taken for Senatorial delegate which resulted in the unanimous choice of John M. Adams, Esq., of Clearfield.

On motion adjourned.

JOHN T. JOHNSTON, Secretary.

SHALL CAPITAL OWN LABOR?

This important question is engaging the attention of the people almost as much now as in the day when slavery was in all its glory, and the master claimed to own the body, and almost the soul, of the poor laborer. There was a time when the laborer made no struggle against the classes of the lordly few, and although he was called free, he really endured a slavery as real and galling as was ever endured by the blacks in the south. But this time has passed we hope, forever. The growing intelligence of the masses is bringing the people up, not only out of the slavery of ignorance, but also from this servile submission to capital. We know that it may be said by some, that the working man is his own worst enemy. That idleness, ignorance and intemperance work all the mischief which they complain of. That any one in free America, may, by industry, frugality and temperance, become himself a capitalist. This may be true in a measure, but it is not all true. The laboring men of America labor under many disadvantages. The long established customs of society are in the interest of the few; our laws are made in the interest of the great monopolies. Capital is bearing down upon labor with a lordly mein, saying, do as I do or starve.

How is reform to be brought about? We answer, by the laboring men studying their own interests; by their growing in intelligence; by refusing to be controlled by scheming tricksters; by breaking away from parties when parties will no longer serve in their interest; by electing men devoted to their interest to all positions of honor and trust within their gift. The producing classes never have done this in the past, and they never will escape this thraldom until they do. There never was a party, which, while it claimed to be a friend to the poor man, gave the lie to that claim so clearly by its actions, as the Democratic party. This party has always been conservative—has always clung to its old traditions right or wrong. Can the laborer expect any amelioration of his condition without reform? Can a party which prides itself upon its past history, and opposes everything new, give them any help? It is these old customs, established in a time when the people were in actual bondage, that the laboring men are interested in breaking up. But as long as they will quietly submit, and support such men as were nominated by the Democratic party in this county and district last fall, they can have no one to blame for their condition but themselves. Had the country been scoured from one end to the other there could not have been found more pronounced monopolists than were brought out by that party in that canvass, from the representative to Congress to our representative to the State Legislature. Men intimately connected with the very worst monopolies we have, viz: our railroads, banks and coal combinations.

There is still another evil in the way, and that is the readiness with which the people trust false friends. There are men in this county claiming to be the especial friends of the laboring men, who have not done a day's work in twenty years, and yet they are loud mouthed about their love and respect for the horny handed sons of toil, and multitudes are deceived thereby. These men must be avoided if the laboring men desire to better their condition, for they are only making this a hoby horse on which to ride into power, and when they have attained their ends they will as readily forget the people as those who have gone before. What is needed, is not men who make loud professions, but men whose interests are so inseparably connected with the common people, that in serving the people, our candidates also serve their own interest, because the two are one. If the people would do this they could count their men every time.

A MOTHER'S GRIEF.—A young man named Joseph Yeater was recently found dead in E. A. Fancher's cigar store, in Lock Haven, from the effects of drinking too much whisky the night before. He and others had spent the previous evening drinking, and then laid down to sleep for the night. In the morning he was found dead. The Lock Haven Eterprise says:

"After the inquest the body was taken to the residence of Mr. Yeater. The family who had been previously notified of the occurrence, were overwhelmed with grief as the lifeless body of the son and brother was brought into their presence. The agony of the mother was indescribable, as with clasped hands and uplifted eyes she appealed to the God of heaven to give her strength to bear the blow which had fallen upon her. Truly the case was a sad one, to witness that mother as she bewailed the tragical fate of her only son."

All the benefits derived from the sale of liquor in the whole country does not weigh a feather in comparison with the angnish that wrung that mother's heart on that fatal morning. Let the thoughtful reader sit down and compute, if he can, the mighty problem.—Altoona Tribune.

ALL the way from Colorado comes this explanation of the hole in William Penn's pocket handkerchief:

"This morning Mr. Penn went out under the tree to conclude his celebrated land-grabbing operation with the Indians, the forest foliage was laden with a heavy dew, and as the young Indian chiefs and maidens put on the brass rings and glass beads, which the conscientious William had given them in exchange for their broad square leagues of fertile land, and commenced to dance with joy, they shook down the dew on his venerable head, and he caught a severe cold in his nose. And the vigorous use to which he was obliged to put his handkerchief resulted in wearing a big hole in it."

THE financial prophets who predicted that the United States Treasury would be embarrassed are disappointed. The statement for April shows very conclusively that the Treasury will be fully able to meet all its obligations at the end of the fiscal year, June 30, and have something to spare. There were about $11,500,000 more in the possession of the Government on May 1, this year, than at the corresponding time last year, and the debt has been reduced during the first ten months of the present fiscal year by about $11,778 25.

——Go to Shortlidge & Co's for wood, coal, line and Cayuga plaster; they also pay the highest market price for grain.

MAJOR HARRY FORSTER.—This gentleman received, last week, an appointment on the staff of Gen. Wm. McCandless, Secretary of Internal Affairs. The position is worth about $1500.00 a year, which is considerably in advance of the salary he has been receiving as clerk to the County Commissioners. Major Forster is a gentleman, every inch of him, and since no Republican could get the appointment, he is the man among all the Democrats in the county whom we would most like see to get it. The Major is pretty stiff in his party predilections but he is not continually protruding his views into other people's ears. He is a quiet, affable, genial, and accomplished gentleman and has about as many friends as any other man in the county. He served his country gallantly through two wars, and, if any man does, he deserves to be cared for by his party. We're sorry to lose him, but gratified at his promotion.

THE VETERANS IN COUNCIL.—In view of the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Reserve Corps Association in Williamsport on the 3d of June next, a meeting of the members of the Veteran Club of Centre County was called in the council rooms in this place on last Saturday evening. There was a fair attendance of veterans. Gen. James A. Beaver, President of the Club, called the members to order, and, in the absence of D. S. Keller, Secretary, Jas. H. Rankin was appointed Secretary pro tem. On motion the Secretary was directed to have postal cards printed and sent to every member, notifying them of the proposed excursion of the Club to Williamsport on the 3d day of June next, and requesting their attendance. A committee, consisting of Messrs. Curtin, Cheesman and Smith, was appointed to procure suitable badges for the members, not to exceed in price fifty cents each.

Gov. Curtin and Gen. Beaver were directed to confer with Supt. Blair, of the valley road, in regard to procuring a special train.

The following resolution was then adopted: that Col. Geo. A. Bayard, Dr. Geo. F. Harris and Mr. Simon Harper be appointed a committee to procure music.

Maj. R. C. Cheesman was directed to prepare a roll of the Centre County soldiers who propose joining the excursion. A number have already enrolled their names, and all are invited to call at Major Cheesman's office and register accordingly. Musicians are invited to report by letter to Col. Geo. A. Bayard, chairman committee on music. There being no further business the Club adjourned to meet at the call of D. S. Keller, Secretary.

THE late Moses Stuart, after having been addicted for thirty-five years to the use of tobacco, broke himself of the bad habit and wrote these words, which should be pondered by every smoker and chewer of the weed: "I do not place the use of tobacco in the same scale with that of ardent spirits. It does not make men maniacs and demons. But that it does undermine the health of thousands; that it creates a nervous irritability, and thus operates on the temper and moral character of men; that it often creates a thirst for spirituous liquors; that it allures to clubs and grog-shops and taverns, and thus helps to make idlers and spendthrifts, and, finally, that it is a very serious and needless expense are things which cannot be denied by any observing and considerate person. And if all this be true, how can the habitual use of tobacco as a mere luxury, be defended by any one who wishes well to his fellow-men, or has a proper regard to his own usefulness?"

REMEMBER.—Remember that when you take your first glass of that which intoxicates, you enter upon a road that leads to destruction! Remember, that once aboard the car of destruction, you move on with lightning rapidity, and that it is immeasurably easier traveling down hill than up! Remember that drunkenness begets beggary, and rum and starvation walk hand in hand! Remember that fiends will laugh when you add your name to the long list of drunkards. Remember these things and turn from the path of destruction before it is too late—before you are brought to a drunkard's grave!

PUBLIC DEBT STATEMENT.

Decrease in April, $2,325,347.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—The public debt statement for April shows a reduction of the debt for the month, of $2,325,346 63.

STATE ITEMS.

—Erie had a vigilance committee as early as 1828.

—John Johnson, of Jeansville, Luzerne Co., was accidently shot and killed by his son on the 23rd ult.

—Jacob Snyder, one of Danville's best citizens, bankrupted himself in building a fine opera house for that town.

—Henry Thomas, a tramp, committed suicide in the Reading lock-up on Friday, by cutting his throat with a razor.

—Officer Reibsenner, of Wilksbarre, who was shot by the Connells on Thursday, died at one o'clock, on Friday morning.

—Samuel Mitchell was caught by a shaft in a paper mill at Manayunk on Wednesday, the 28th ult., and instantly killed.

—Sharon is to have a new paper—the Mercer County Eagle. It will probably soar awhile, and then the editor's pocket-book will go up.

—There are seven banks in Berks county with stock assessed at $910,690. In Lebanon county there are six banks with stock assessed at $580,760.

—Bucks county furnishes $1,50,000 worth of poultry to the New York markets, and over $300,000 worth to the Philadelphia and Trenton markets.

—The Venango County Agricultural Society will hold its second fair in Franklin on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, September 15, 16 and 17.

—J. W. Steventon was sentenced to three years' imprisonment by Judge Pearson, of Harrisburg, for criminal intimacy with his daughter, aged fifteen years.

—The stores of H. Patton & Co. and Dr. J. H. Adams, in Cochranton, were entered on the night of the 29th ult., and the safes blown open and $2,000 in cash secured. No clue.

—The fourth annual convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the diocese of Central Pennsylvania will begin its sessions in Christs Cathedral, Reading, on the 8th of June. Bishop Howe will preside.

—A large wheel in a rolling mill in Philadelphia burst into about two hundred pieces on Friday morning, severely injuring two men and causing damage to the building and machinery to the amount of five thousand dollars.

—The chapel for the Educational Home for Boys at the corner of Forty-ninth street and Greenway avenue, Philadelphia, was dedicated on the 30th ult. It is conducted under the auspices of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

—The Veterans of the war of 1812 will hold their next reunion at the Cullum House, Meadville, September 10, 1876, the anniversary of "Perry's Victory," which event signalized the utter defeat of the British navy on the lakes.

—The Clarion Jeffersonian says: The growing grain in this country is considerably blighted by the spring frosts. Many wheat fields are being plowed for corn and oats. Prospects of fruit are far from being bright. A week or two of warm weather may revive some crops that now appear winter killed.

—A boy aged about fifteen years met a horrible death in a woolen and blanket mill at West Manayunk on last Tuesday. He was endeavoring to adjust a belt on the main shaft. His left leg became entangled in the belt, and in a twinkling he was drawn around the shaft feet foremost, his body striking the ceiling and his brains being dashed out and his body horribly mangled.

—The Reading Times tells it, but then it may be the work of an imaginative reporter: The following is taken verbatim from a Reading clergyman's dairy: "April 24th. Had fun. in church. Met cats. in lecture room." The astonished reader's mind will be relieved to know that the seeming levity of the clergyman meant, "Had a funeral at church," and "Met catechumens in the lecture room."

—Col. Ramsey, of the Potteville Journal, and Y. S. Walter, Esq., of the Delaware County Republican have made arrangements to erect capacious and imposing printing offices in their respective towns the coming season. William S. Ritter, Esq., of the Reading Adler has also purchased an eligible site on the corner of Sixth and Court streets, on which he will erect a four-story printing house at an early day.

—The Philadelphia Pneumatic Railway Company are pressing the authorities of that city to allow them to construct a railway beneath the surface of Broad street and extending from the North Pennsylvania Railway depot, at Berks and American streets, to the Philadelphia and Reading depots at Ninth and Green and at Broad Callowhill streets, and thence to the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore depot at Broad and Prime streets.

—The Philadelphia Press of the 27th inst. says: The funeral of Mrs. Eliza Ford, a lady who weighed between 500 and 600 pounds, took place yesterday from her residence, Eighteenth and Hamilton streets. Her history has been very peculiar. Seventeen years ago last Thanksgiving day, Mrs. Ford, who then resided at Darby, was engaged in pouring out tea for some guests who had been spending the afternoon with her. Suddenly she ceased, her arms dropped to her side, and from that time to the present she has been powerless. She then took her bed and remained there until she died, requiring as much attention and care as an infant. To make matters worse, she began to become exceedingly stout, and her weight increased until her arms and extremities were said to be double the size of those of an ordinary person in good health. She weighed at least five hundred pounds, and it required four men to lift her from her bed. With extreme difficulty the corpse was brought down stairs yesterday morning, and laid in a case measuring thirty-six inches across. There being no supports sufficiently strong to bear the weight it was laid upon the floor, and at the time of the funeral yesterday afternoon the case was placed sideways on rollers and taken out through the front door.

BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN

Poetry.

THE OLD PENNSYLVANIA FARMER.

Well—well! this is a comfort, now—the air is mild as May,
And yet 'tis March the twentieth, or twenty-first, to-day;
And Reuben ploughs the hill for corn;
thought it would be tough,
But now I see the furrows turned, I guess it's dry enough

I don't half live penned up in doors; a stove's not like the sun.
When I can't see how things go on, I fear they are badly done;
I might have farmed till now, I think—one's family is so queer—
As if a man can't oversee in his eightieth year!

Father, I mind, was eighty-five before he gave up his;
But he was dim o' sight, and crippled with the rheumatiz.
followed in the old, steady way, so he was satisfied;
But Reuben likes new-fangled things and ways
I can't abide.

I'm glad I built this southern porch; my chair seems easier here;
I haven't seen as fine spring this five and twenty year!
And how the time goes round so quick!—a week I would have sworn,
Since they were husking on the flat, and now they plough for corn!

When I was young, time had for me a lazy ox's pace,
But now it's like a blooded horse, that means to run the race.
And yet I can't fill out my days, I tire myself with naught;
I'd rather use my legs and hands than plague
my head with thought.

There's Marshall, too, I see from here; he and his boys begin
Why don't they take the lower field? that one is poor and thin.
A coat of lime it ought to have, but they're a doleful set;
They think swamp-mud's as good, but we shall see what corn they get!

Across the level. Brown's new place begins to make a show;
I thought he'd have to wait for trees, but, bless me how they grow!
They say it's fine—two acres filled with evergreens and things;
But so much land! it worries me, for not a cent it brings.

He has a right, I don't deny, to please himself that way,
But 'tis a bad example set, and leads young folks astray;
Book-learning gets the upper-hand and work
gets slow and slack,
And they that come long after us will find things gone to wrack.

Now Reuben's on the hither side, his team comes back again;
I know how deep he sets the share, I see the horses strain;
I had that field so clean of stones, but he must plough so deep,
He'll have it like a turnpike soon, and scarcely fit for sheep.

If father lived, I'd like to know what he would say to these
New notions of the younger men, who farm by chemistries;
There's different stock and other grass; there's patent plough and cart—
Five hundred dollars for a bull! it would have broke his heart,

The maples must be putting out; I see a something red
Down yonder where the clearing laps across the meadow's head.
Swamp-cabbage grows beside the run; the green is good to see,
But Wheat's the color, after all, that cheers and livens me.

They think I have an easy time, no need to worry now—
Sit on the porch all day and watch them mow,
and sow, and plough;
Sleep in the summer in the shade, in the winter in the sun—
I'd rather do the thing myself, and know just how it's done!

Well—I suppose I'm old, and yet 'tis not so long ago
When Reuben spread the swath to dry, and Jesse learned to mow,
And William raked, and Isreal hoed, and Joseph pitched with me;
But such a man as I was then my boys will never be!

don't mind William's hankering for lectures and for books;
He never had a farming knack—you'd see it in his looks;
But handsome is that handsome does, and he is well to do;
'Twould ease my mind if I could say the same of Jesse too.

There's one black sheep in every flock, so there must be in mine,
But I was wrong that second time his bond to undersign;
It's less than what his share will be—but there's the interest?
In ten years more I might have had two thousand to invest,

There's no use thinking of it now, and yet it makes me sore;
The way I've slaved and saved, I ought to count a little more.
I never lost a foot of land, and that's a comfort, sure,
And if they do not call me rich, they cannot call me poor.

Well, well! ten thousand times I've thought the things I'm thinking now; thought them in the harvest field and in the clover-mow;
And sometimes I get tired of them, and wish I'd something new—
But this is all I've seen and known; so what's a man to do?

'Tis like my time is nearly out, of that I'm not afraid;
I never cheated any man and all my debts are paid.
They call it rest that we shall have, but work would do no harm;
There can't be rivers there, and fields, without some sort o' farm!

Miscellaneous.

Why Farmers' Children Leave the Farm.

While at an auction sale, one day, as a croquet set was being formed, I overheard this conversation between two farmers. One of them said: "When I want my children to play, I will set them to milking; it is just as good for them." The other replied. "Yes, or picking stone; I don't believe in such nonsense as this."

It is a curious fact, (and yet fact it is,) that country living and country thinking is generally distasteful to the youth of both sexes; and that, with one accord, they embrace the earliest opportunity of escaping the irksome monotony of farm-life. People trained to agricultural employments, are too apt to think the curse pronounced upon ADAM descended, with "one full swoop," on them, leaving all other trades and professions "scot-free." Alas! how many other mortals toil and struggle for mere existence, far away from the glad sunshine and free air, where there are no green trees, nor pure streams to shade or cool the sweating brow. Why can't the farmer, with his broad acres—though he be ever so weary fencing, ditching and cultivating them—remember the poor miner, toiling down under the earth, shut out from every glad sight and sound; or the many who spend their days and nights in dusty shops and hot furnaces? Why can't he remember these fellow-mortals, and be glad and thankful for the freshness and beauty which surround him? "Thorns and thistles" infest other than the farmer's fields.

There must be some reason for this antipathy to farming, which so surely "grows with the growth and strengthens with the strength" of the young people, maturing into a settled purpose to quit the occupation, while yet their other tastes and desires are in their infancy. Let's look about for the why and wherefore of this prejudice. There must be notes of explanation of the subject somewhere; perhaps an "appendix" or "glossary" to somebody's experience would answer all doubts and questionings, and tell the story clearly. We have already seen that the farmer's labor is neither more arduous nor disagreeable than other pursuits. There are many things necessary to our comfort and happiness, far more difficult in the doing than the plowing, sowing and reaping, which "Give us each day our daily bread;" but the same God who appointed this means of subsistence, has also said that "Man cannot live by bread alone," and this, we think, solves the vexing problem.

There is in almost every country home a deplorable dearth of amusements. There is nothing done purely for recreation; but one kind of work succeeds another, until there is left no spice in life, save the trifling variety which unavoidably grows out of the different sorts of drudgery.

Seasons come and go, with only natural changes, and the so-called, "fashions and follies," which interest and keep awake the outside world, form no part of the life of the farmer's children; and time either wearies them of the monotony, making them restless or dissatisfied, or they pass on through each gradation of dullness until a degree of contentment is reached, unrivaled save by the cattle in the pasture.

Most farmers—those at least with whom profit without loss is the sum total of existence—look upon all games and amusements as a waste of time and strength. "Milking and picking stone," say they, "are just as good for their children, and a heap more useful than croquet and such folde-rol." They seem to forget the old adage: "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy;" and yet they are amazed at the impatience of those same children to exchange the roomy country for the cramped offices and dwellings of the crowded city. Everything like recreation is condemned, or positively forbidden, and some useful employment suggested in its stead.

So the young heart plods wearily on, with its own little weight of bitterness, while the parent rejoices in the rich legacy of industrious habits the child will one day have. Thank fortune! there are some childish sports and enjoyments which even the sourest, severest authority cannot shut out. Stones will roll down hills and splash merrily in the water below; even cows will grow frisky and playful some times; and he who has not rolled down mossy banks in the bright sunshine, tracked in the warm sand, leaving the impress of bare feet, or paddled in the shallow water, has missed some of childhood's sunniest pleasures.

Older heads and hearts will not be satisfied with such pastimes, and must needs reach out for older amusements. They long for contact with other minds; the groove they are in seems narrow, and it frets them to be confined; they are stretching and growing, but their parents do not discover their larger wants. Strange, that the tillers of the soil, who have ever before them nature's broad, jolly face, and her ever recurring example of toil and rest, could so misunderstand her teachings, or prevent her purposes, as their views of life would seem to indicate!

Work is work everywhere; and so long as this earth revolves in its orbit, and its inhabitants revolve in theirs, there will be increasing toil and turmoil; but we might have many merry, happy hours sandwiched in, to relieve the dullness of existence.

Labor is the heaven-imposed restraint on humanity's sinful passions; and instead of regarding it as a curse, we ought rather to be thankful for God's merciful kindness in giving us something to do. But when our allotted task is done, our work completed, who shall deny us recreation? Did not God himself rest after His six days of mighty work, and listen with the joy of a Creator to the grand anthum of the Universe? Let this Infinite example, together with the glorious promise He has given His beloved, of eternal rest and pleasure, be our title-deed to the joys and innocent amusements He has given us here below.

Items of Interest to the Farmers.

The following, compiled from the researches of Professor Rogers, of Oxford University, England, shows the United States to be the most prolific in hogs, while Norway, Denmark, and Sweden take the lead in cattle, England and Norway in sheep:

LIVE STOCK.

Great Britain has one cow to every twelve persons, a sheep for everybody, and one pig for every six.

France has a like proportion of sheep, a double share, comparatively, of cows, but only one pig to six persons.

The Swedes have a cow between three and one-half of them, a sheep between two and three-quarters, and a pig to a baker's dozen.

There are as many sheep as there are Norwegians in Norway, when they are all at home, and two and one half of them—the Norwegians—are entitled to a cow. They have one-eighteenth of a pig each.

Denmark has a cow for three persons, as many sheep as persons, and a pig for four and three-quarters person.

Prussia, with her usual uniformity, has an equal number of cows and pigs, one to every five inhabitants, besides a sheep apiece all around.

Wurtemburg has a quarter as many cows as people, a sheep to two and three-quarters, and a pig to seven.

Bavaria rates the same as Wurtemburg as to cows and sheep, and is as much better off for pigs as one-fifth is better than one-seventh.

Saxony has a sheep and a pig for every eight persons, and a cow for every six.

Holland has a cow to four, a sheep to four, and a pig to twelve persons.

Belgium, a cow to six, a sheep to nine, and a pig to eight (which is a Hibernicism.)

Austria has a cow to six persons, and a sheep and a pig to every five.

Switzerland runs up to the Swedish standard on cows, one and one-half persons, and has a sheep for five, and a pig for seven and one-half persons.

We Americans close the list with a cow for every four of us, a sheep apiece, and one pig to every one and one half.

WHICH BREED OF POULTRY EATS MOST.

An Ohio poultry dealer took ten pullets of each of the breeds mentioned below, about two months old, and gave them a yard forty feet square, with a comfortable house, and kept exact account of eggs and feed as follows: The Dark Brahmas ate 369½ quarts of corn, oats, and wheat screening, laid 605 eggs, and weighed 70 pounds. The Buff Cochins ate 406 quarts, laid 691 eggs, and weighed 73 pounds. The Gray Dorkings ate 309½ quarts, laid 524 eggs, and weighed 59½ pounds. The Houdans ate 214½ quarts, laid 763 eggs, and weighed 46½ pounds. The Leghorn ate 321 1-5 quarts, laid 807 eggs, and weighed 36½ pounds.

GROWTH OF THE GRANGES.

It has been said by some that the Grange movement in its decadence, but the facts hardly justify the assertion. The monthly Bulletin of the National Grange, dated March 17, shows the total number of subordinate Granges in operation as 22,547, the aggregate membership of which might be estimated all the way from 1,250,000 to 2,000,000, The number of subordinate Granges organized in 1870 was 11,841, or more than was organized during the whole six years existence of the Order prior to the year named. The amount received during the year 1874 by the National Grange from subordinate Granges, in the shape of charter fees, and etc., was $179,000, against $161,615 received prior to that year. During the existence of the Order 93 Granges have consolidated, 31 have died and 111 had their charters revoked. The cost of materials sent out to subordinate Granges is said to be $70,650. Iowa which for a number of years led all the States in the number of Granges, now stands third, with 2,003; Missouri, with 2,016, preceding her; and also Indiana, with 2,007. Illinois follows with 1,567, and next comes Kentucky, having 1,517, and then Ohio, with 1,149. The Order still seems to flourish best in the southern and Western States. The great State of New York has but 300 Granges, and Pennsylvania only 482. New Jersey has 86; Connecticut, 8; and Massachusetts but 86.—Ex

HOLDING WHEAT FOR A RISE.

The Lyons N. Y. Republican reports that there is a farmer in Phelps, Ontario county, who has on hand the wheat product of his farm for the past four years, refusing to sell from time to time because he believed wheat was 'going higher.' His granaries and every available place in his barn and other out-buildings are occupied, and there are piles of wheat in his garret and elsewhere in his house. He has 'set his stake,' he says, and will hold on to his wheat until it brings him the price he has named to himself "if it isn't for forty years.

A WOMAN'S REASON WHY THE PASTOR IS INNOCENT.—If Mr. Beecher is guilty it is a thing to make the world weep. I believe that he is innocent. I believe that he suffers this terrible discipline, which should fill all hearts with awe, in order that some great glory to the name of Christ shall be wrought out; and that his recognition and acceptance of this sustain him in such serenity of patience and gentleness. In the presence of such an experience it becomes us to hush ourselves into a solemn silence, and to wait for the developments of God's will.

That simple, spontaneous, loving nature is not the nature that commits such sin! He has 'given himself,' without measure and without calculation, to his chosen friends, and with an absolute trust of which any amount of advantage might have been taken. Made to believe that he had wronged some of them, he poured out all he had and was, to help them, and to save his dear church from the shadow of a stain. Made to believe that a woman's defrauded heart had turned to him from its natural relations, all that was chivalrous, generous and good in his Christian manhood took the blame, and rose up to shield and to help her in her sorrow and helplessness, counting sacrifice of himself as nothing to secure that end.

It is the spirit of Christ which the world cannot understand. It is the little childhood of the Kingdom! Very like the violets that he loves is this man whose trumpet of fame was sounded throughout the world; simple as simplicity itself, yet wearing the purple of king's and giving out a largess of fragrance that enriches the whole atmosphere.—*N. Our Story Teller.

THE WILD DUCK SHOOTER.

BY JEAN INGELOW.

The charity of the rich is much to be commended, but how beautiful is the charity of the poor!

Call to mind the coldest day you ever experienced. Think of the bitter wind and driving snow; think how you shook and shivered—how the sharp white particles were driven up against your face—how, within doors, the carpets were lifted like billows along the floors, the wind howled and moaned in the chimneys, windows creaked, doors rattled, and every now and then heavy lumps of snow came thundering down with a dull weight from the roof.

Now hear my story.

In one of the broad, open plains of Lincolnshire, there is a long, reedy sheet of water a favorite resort of wild ducks. At its northern extremity stands two mud cottages, old and out of repair.

One bitter, bitter night, when the snow lay three feet deep on the ground, and a cutting east wind was driving it about, and whistling in the dry frozen reeds by the water's edge, and springing the bare willow trees till their branches swept the ice, an old woman sat spinning in one of these cottages before a moderately cheerful fire. Her kettle was singing on the coals; she had a reed-candle, or home-made rushlight on her table, but the full moon shone in, and was the brighter light of the two. These two cottages were far from any road, or any other habitation; the old woman was, therefore, surprised, as she sat drawing out her thread, and crooning an old north country song, to hear a sudden knock at the door.

It was loud and impatient, not like the knock of her neighbors in the other cottage; but the door was bolted, and the old woman rose, and shuffling to the window, looked out, and saw a shivering figure, apparently that of a youth.

"Trampers!" said the old woman, sententiously, "tramping folks be not wanted here;" so saying, she went back to the fire without deigning to answer the door.

The youth, upon this, tried the door and called to her to beg admittance. She heard him rap the snow from his shoes against her lintel, and again knock as if he thought she was deaf, and he should surely gain admittance if he could only make her hear.

The old woman, surprised at his audacity, went to the casement, and, with all pride of possession, opened it and inquired his business.

"Good woman," the stranger began, "I only want a seat at your fire."

"Nay," said the old woman, giving effect to her words by her uncouth dialect, "thou'l get no shelter here; I've naught to give to beggars—a dirty, wet critter," she continued, wrathfully, slamming to the window, "it's a wonder where he found any water, too, seeing it freezes so hard, a body can get none for the kettle, saving what's broken up with a hatchet."

On this the beggar turned hastily away.

And at this point in his narrative, the person who told it me stopped and said, "Do you think the old woman was very much to blame?"

"She might have acted more kindly," I replied; "but why do you ask?"

"Because," said he, "I have heard her conduct so much reflected on by some who would have thought nothing of it, if it had not been for the consequences."

"She might have turned him away less roughly," I observed.

"That is true," he answered; "but, in any case, I think, though we might give them food or money, we should hardly invite beggars in to sit by the fire."

"Certainly not," I replied; "and this woman could not tell that the beggar was honest."

"No," said he, "but I must go on with my narrative. The stranger turned very hastily from her door, and waded through the deep snow towards the other cottage. The bitter wind helped to drive him towards it. It looked no less poor than the first; and, when he had tried the door, found it bolted, and knocked twice without attracting attention, his heart sank within him. His hand was so numbed with cold, that he had made scarcely any noise; he tried again.

A rush candle was burning within, and a matronly-looking woman sat before the fire. She held an infant in her arms, and had dropped asleep; but his third knock roused her, and, wrapping her apron round the child, she opened the door a very little way and demanded what he wanted.

"Good woman," the youth began, "I have had the misfortune to fall in the water this bitter night, and I am so numbed that I can scarcely walk."

The woman gave him a sudden, earnest look, and then sighed.

"Come in!" she said; "thou art so nigh the size of Jem, I thought at first ye was him come home from sea."

The youth stepped across the threshold, trembling with cold and wet; and no wonder, for his clothes were completely encased in wet mud, and the water dripped from them with every step he took on the sanded floor.

"Thou art in a sorry plight," said the woman, "and it be two miles to the nighest housen; come and kneel down afore the fire; thy teeth chatter so pitifully, I can scarce bear to hear them."

She looked at him more attentively, and saw that he was a mere boy, not more than sixteen years of age. Her motherly heart was touched for him. "Art hungry?" she asked, turned to the table; "thou art wet to the skin. What hast been doing?"

"Shooting wild ducks," said the boy.

"O!" said his hostess, "thou art one of the keepers' boys, then, I reckon?"

He followed the direction of her eyes, and saw two portions of bread set upon the table, with a small piece of bacon upon each.

"My master be very late," she observed, for charity did not make her use elegant language, and by her master she meant her husband; "but thou art welcome to my bit, and sup, for I was waiting for him; may be it will put a little warmth in thee to eat and drink;" so saying, she took up a mug of beer from the hearth, and pushed it towards him, with her share of the supper.

"Thank you!" said the boy, "but I am so wet I am making quite a pool before your fire with the drippings from my clothes."

"Ay, thou art wet, indeed," said the woman, and, raising, she went to an old box in which she began to search, and presently came to the fire with a perfectly clean checked shirt in her hand, and a tolerably good suit of clothes.

"There!" said she, showing them with no small pride, "these be my master's Sunday clothes, and if thou wilt be very very careful of them, I'll let thee wear them till thine be dry." She then explained that she was going to put her "barin" to bed, and proceeded up a ladder into the room above, leaving the boy to array himself in these respectable and desirable garments.

When she came down her guest had dressed himself in the laborer's clothes; he had had time to warm himself, and he was eating and drinking with hungry relish. He had thrown his muddy clothes in a heap upon the floor, and, as she proceeded to lift them up, she said, "Ah! lad, lad, I doubt thy head has been under water; thy poor mother would have been sorely frightened if she could have seen thee awhile ago."

"Yes," said the boy; and, in imagination, the cottage dame saw this said mother, a care-worn, hard working creature like herself; while the youthful guest saw, in imagination, a beautiful and courtly lady; and both saw the same love, the same anxiety, the same terror at sight of a lonely boy struggling in the moonlight through breaking ice, with no one to help him, catching at the frozen reeds, and then creeping up, shivering and benumbed, to a cottage door.

But even as she stooped the woman forgot her imagination, for she had taken a waistcoat into her hands, such as had never passed between them before; a gold pencil-case dropped from the pocket, and, on the floor, among a heap of mud that covered the outer garments, lay a white shirt-sleeve, so white, indeed, and fine, that she thought it could hardly be worn by a squire!

She glanced from the clothes to the owner. He had thrown down his cap, and his fair, curly hair, and broad forehead, convinced her that he was of gentle birth; but while she hesitated to sit down, he sat a chair for her, and said, with boyish frankness, "I say, what a lonely place this is; if you had not let me in, the water would have all frozen on me before I reached home. Catch me duck-shooting again by myself!"

"It's very cold sport that, sir," said the woman.

The young gentleman assented most readily, and asked if he might stir the fire.

"And welcome, sir," said the woman. She felt a curiosity to know who he was, and he partly satisfied her by remarking that he was staying at Deen Hall, a house about five miles off, adding that, in the morning, he had broken a hole in the ice very near the decoy, but it had iced over so fast, that in the dusk he had missed it and fallen in, for it would not bear him. He had made some landmarks, and taken every proper precaution, but he supposed the sport had excited him so much that, in the moonlight, he had passed them by.

He then told her of his attempt to get shelter in the other cottage.

"Sir," said the woman, "if you had said you were a gentleman—"

The boy laughed. "I don't think I knew it, my good woman," he replied, "my senses were so benumbed; for I was some time struggling at the water's edge among the broken ice, and then I believe I was nearly an hour creeping up to your cottage door. I remember it all rather indistinctly, but as soon as I had felt the fire, and drank the warm beer, I was a different creature."

While they still talked, the husband came in; and while he was eating his supper, they agreed that he should walk to Deen Hall, and let its inmates know of the gentleman's safety; and when he was gone, they made up the fire with all the coal that remained to that poor household, and the woman crept up to the bed, and left her guest to lie down and rest before it.

In the grey of dawn the laborer returned, with a servant leading a horse, and bringing a fresh suit of clothes.

The young gentleman took his leave with many thanks, slipping three half-crowns into the woman's hand, probably all the money he had about him. And I must not forget to mention that he kissed the baby, for when she tells the story, the mother always adverts to that circumstance with great pride, adding, that her child being as "clean as wax, was quite fit to be kissed by anybody!"

"Missis," said her husband, as they stood together in the doorway, looking after their guest, "who dost think that be?"

"I don't know," answered the Missis.

"Then I'll just tell thee, that be young Lord W——; so thou mayest be a proud woman, thou sits and talks with lords, and asks them into supper—ha, ha!" So saying, her master shouldered his spade and went his way, leaving her clinking the three half-crowns in her hand, and considering what she should do with them. Her neighbor from the other cottage presently stepped in, and when she heard the tale and saw the money, her heart was ready to break with envy and jealousy. "O! to think that good luck should have come to her door, and she should have been so foolish as to turn it away. Seven shillings and sixpence for a morsel of food and a night's shelter, why, it was nearly a week's wages!"

So there, as they both supposed the matter ended, and the next week the frost was sharper than ever. Sheep were frozen in the fenny fields, and poultry on their perches, but the good woman had walked to the nearest town, and bought a blanket. It was a welcome addition to their bed-covering, and it was many a long year since they had been so comfortable.

But it chanced one day at noon, that looking out at her casement, she spied three gentlemen skating along the ice toward the cottage. They sprang on to the bank, took off their skates, and made for her door. The young nobleman informed her that he had had such a severe cold he could not come and see her before.

"He spoke as free and pleasantly," she observed, in telling the story, "as if I had been a lady, and no less!" and then he brought a parcel out of his pocket, 'and I've been over to B——,' he says, and brought you a book for a matter of ten minutes, and went away. So I waited till my master came home, and we opened the parcel, and there was a fine Bible inside, all over gold and red morocco, and my name and his written inside; and bless him? a ten pound note doubled down over his name. I'm sure, when I thought he was a poor forlorn creature, he was kindly welcome. So my master laid out part of the money in tools, and we rented a garden, and he goes over on market days to sell what we grow; so now, thank God, we want for nothing."

This is how she generally concludes the little history, never failing to add that the young lords kissed her baby.

"But," said my friend, "I have not told you what I thought of the best part of the anecdote. When this poor Christian woman was asked what induced her to take in a perfect stranger, and trust him with the best clothing her house afforded, she answered simply, "Well, I saw him shivering and shaking, so I thought "Thou shalt come in here for the sake of Him 'that had not where to lay his head.'"

Now I think we must all have read many times of such rewards following up little acts of kindness. Hundreds of tales are founded on such incidents, but in real life, they are not common. Poetical justice is not the kind of justice that generally comes about in the order of God's Providence. We ought not to expect such; and woful, indeed, must be the disappointment of those who do kind actions in hopes of receiving it.

The old woman in the other cottage may open her door every night to forlorn beggars, but it is all but certain that she will not open it to a nobleman in disguise! Therefore, let neither man, woman, nor child found false hopes upon this story; for let them entertain as many beggars as they will, they need not expect that they have gold pencil-cases in their pockets—unless they have stolen them.

These stories are, as I said, very common, and their moral is sufficiently obvious; it is, "Do good and you shall have your reward." I would not quarrel with the maxim, but I should like to see it differently applied. I think it arises from a feeling which has done harm rather than good. We are indeed, quite at liberty to use the Scriptural maxim, "He that watereth shall be watered also himself," but then, we should give the term "watereth" its Scriptural sense—an extended and beautiful sense.

The act of charity is often highly valued, while the motive, which alone can make it acceptable, is overlooked and forgotten; it is not hope that should prompt it, but gratitude. Not many even of the Lord's people can always say in simplicity, "I did it for the sake of Him that 'had not where to lay His head.'"

We have strangely reversed the order of things. We sometimes act as if our feeling was, "Let us do good and give, that God, who loveth a cheerful giver may be good to us;" but our feelings should be, "Christ has died, let us do good for His sake, to His poor brethren, as an evidence that we are grateful for His inestimable gift."

Let us do good, not to receive more good in return, but as an evidence of gratitude for what has already been bestowed. In a few words, let it be "all for love, and nothing for reward."

ONLY A WOMAN'S STORY.

Rich heavy curtains are they against which rest my head, and they should be to mate with their surroundings, for everything betokens wealth, idleness and ease. Of the costliest silks and laces is the robe which falls down to my feet. Diamonds sparkle on my face and hands. My kind, indulgent husband has just said to me, "You are very beautiful to-night, Laura. I am so proud of you, my darling."

Is not this enough to satisfy the cravings of a woman's heart? How many say that a life like mine must be a happy one—no tears, no heart-aches! Ah! how little do they know of the weary, aching heart, the ever longing for years long since past.

I have been dreaming of them to-night while looking out at the bright moon as she peers down from amid the fleecy clouds—dreaming of a time in those past years when I looked up at her unsullied purity; but how different from to-night! Then my feet pressed nature's carpeting, and my head rested against the trunk of the apple tree which stood beside my father's door. I wore no jewels then, but May roses were braided in my hair—braided by his hand; not my husband's, but the hand of one who was very dear to me. He is now in that bright land above. They say that there are meetings there, and no heartaches.

Oh, Gerald! you will forgive me then! Heaven only knows how I have suffered. It seems so long since that May night, when we stood beneath that old tree, Gerald's dark eyes looking down into mine, and his lips uttering words that were so dear to me; and I, placing my hands in his, promised to be his bride.

Oh, how I loved him! He was so good, kind and noble, and I was so proud of his manly beauty and grand intellect. His struggle had been a hard one, but he had fought it bravely through; and now, with nothing but his profession as an engineer, he was starting to win his way and a home for me.

"You will wait for me, Laura, dear?" said he. "Remember that it will be the thoughts of you that will cause me to use every effort to make me a home, for when it is gained I am to claim my bride. My home is to be your home."

And I promised that I would wait—wait until time should turn our brown heads white, if need be.

Looking through the long, dreary years, how plainly can I see the far-away farm-house, as it was when I was one of its inmates. But there is a great difference between Laura Clayton and Laura Lynn, wife of the banker.

Ten years have made the change. I was a careless, light-hearted girl then, the only child of kind parents, who gratified every wish of their child that was in their power. I had had a taste of the world, and it caused me to become tired of my farm life. I longed for something higher, and to gain this, I had learned that wealth was one of the greatest requisites.

It was very hard to part with Gerald; but his letters were so full of love and hope, that they helped me to pass, almost pleasantly, the days. One year had glided smoothly by, and then the tempter came.

Theodore Lynn saw me, was attracted to my pretty young face, and asked me to be his wife. Then I was false to Gerald, false to myself, for I broke my vow and took a false one.

I wrote to Gerald but a short time before I was married—wrote as I had ever written. I did not tell him—I could not. Other hands might right it; other lips tell him—not mine.

My husband brought me to his elegant mansion, and his position placed me in the highest circles.

I never saw Gerald again. He never married, and they told me he died with my name upon his lips.

My parents went to that long home the first year of our marriage, and last summer, for the first time since then, I visited my childhood's home. The house was lonely and dreary. The rose and jessamine that I had trained over the windows were torn down; but one of the old lilacs remained, and the paths that my feet had trod so often had long since with grass been overgrown. The tree—that dear old tree, beneath whose branches I had sung, talked, laughed, and uttered the vow so falsely broken—had been uprooted by the wind. I sat down on its fallen trunk, and wept tears of bitter sorrow. I shall never go back again until they lay me down by my parents.

My husband is proud of me, proud of the admiration I have won, and he loves me. I have tried to do my duty towards him, yet I feel that I have wronged him, and when the time comes I shall tell him—tell him of the past.

CALDWELL'S
WINE AND IRON BITTERS

These celebrated Bitters are pure, safe and reliable; composed of Roots, Barks and Herbs with Citrate of Iron and pure native wine, made from the native grapes of California, the ingredients are choice, strengthening, purifying and life-giving medicinal agents, forming the most pleasant and healthy stimulating tonic and strengthening Bitters for improving the appetite giving tone and vital energy to the blood and system. For medicinal purposes, for family use, travelers, voyagers, etc., they cannot be surpassed.

These bitters are in an eminent degree strengthening, purifying, diuretic stimulating and nourishing to the whole system, giving new life and activity to every organ and part alike, without that ever recurring reaction that follows the use of most all other tonics and stimulants in the market. For

No other Bitters in the universe can equal them. I lack space for detailing the availability of these Bitters, but will briefly state its general effects upon the human system, as follows:

It absolutely Purifies the Blood. It speedily corrects all morbid changes in the Blood. It equalizes the circulation of the Blood. It regulates the supply and quality of the blood. It prepares the Blood to furnish a proper support to all the vital properties. It enriches the constituents of the Blood upon which the vital energy of the system is dependent. It intuses the proper degree of animal heat in the system. It purges from the system the morbid humors which retard its natural functions. It imparts vitality and elasticity to every organ of the body. It corrects all derangements, however trivial, which are the first origin of Disease. It promotes the operation of the digestive organs. It improves the appetite and removes all disagreeable feeling after eating. It perfects digestion, rendering it natural and easy. It acts as a mild and efficacious stomachic. It elevates the standard of all the vital forces. It strengthens the nervous fibres and diffuses a calm throughout the nervous system. It destroys all morbid conditions of the mind. It disperses dullness and languor. It banishes those clogs upon pleasure which produce gloom. It drives away those distressing symptoms which rob us of happiness. It revives the physical energies by infusing new life and power into the system. It fortifies the system against the dangers of malaria, fluctuations of the temperature changes in the climate, &c. In short, it prepares the system for the radical change to be wrought in its condition, and restores it to perfect health and natural vigor.

OUR ASSOCIATED PRESS LETTER.

PHILADELPHIA, May 17, 1875.

POLITICAL.

The Liberal Republicans of Pennsylvania have informally determined to hold a State Convention at Williamsport, in August, to "consider the propriety of nominating candidates for Governor and State Treasurer."

In view of this fact it may not be out of place—inasmuch as the Liberal Republican organization has its head and front in this city—to inform you as to its strength and purposes.

The Liberal Republicans of this state are those gentlemen who went to Cincinnati three years ago this May. They numbered forty seven men in all; while at the Cincinnati Convention, which nominated Mr. Greeley, they met and appointed Col. Aleck McClure, chairman of the State Committee, and Hon. Wm. H. Ruddiman, member of the National Committee. Col. Thos. J. Worrell was made chairman of the Committee of this city. Worrell with his two Secretaries and Treasurer, and all his Executive Committee have returned to the Republican fold, and are in full fellowship with it, now that it is intensely anti-Grant. Ruddiman has been stumping it during the past two years for the Republicans, and two of McClure's own Secretaries are pronounced Republicans, thus leaving only "Aleck" and Rauch, of Lancaster, the Liberal Republican party of Pennsylvania.

The object of the Williamsport Convention is to forestall the nomination of what McClure terms "a Bourbon Democrat." for Governor, by the Liberals nominating either Edgar Cowan or Andrew G. Curtin. As the delegates to that Convention will attend upon the invitation of Col. McClure, or Eli Slifer, it is scarcely probable that Ex-Senator Cowan can be hoodwinked by the little conjunction "or."

Free transportation to and from Williamsport, and free boarding for a week at Herdic's hotel, would attract a crowd at the Convention, respectable at least in numbers.

HOW WE GROW.

Another evidence of the prosperous times that are coming with the bursting of the buds in May, is found in the application, during April, for permits to erect 1102 houses, stores, churches, &c. in this city. During April, 1874, there were but 696 permits issued. Of the permits issued for 1875, there were four hundred for two story houses, 435 for three story, 6 four story, 43 stores and dwellings, 15 stores, the balance made up of churches, factories, warehouses, schoolhouses, &c. These building operations for April, of themselves, would form a pretty respectable sized town.

JAY COOKE.

The handsome residence of Jay Cooke, or rather the granite monument of his creditors' folly, is to be sold at public auction on the 25th of this month. The property cost more than $1,000,000 in money, to say nothing of the heartaches of those who lost their all through the ignorance of Jay Cooke as a financier.

DEATHS.

During the first week of May, 374 persons passed from this city to the hereafter. Of this number, 96 died from diseases affecting the lungs, 32 of scarlet fever, 15 of old age, 4 of paralysis, and 7 of apoplexy. Thirty of the number were between 70 and 80 years of age, and 15 between 80 and 100.

A number of attempts have recently been made to corrupt petit and grand juries, now serving here. So persistent and bold have these attempts become, that in two instances during the week the attention of the court was called to the matter. The court sent for the district attorney, placed the matter in his hands and hoped the guilty parties would be brought to punishment. The examination developed the fact that two men did attempt to corrupt the jury, both of whom have been placed under $2,000 bail each for their attempt at "embracery."

JOURNALISTIC.

About the middle of April there was issued in this city, by John H. Bentley & Co., a 16 page monthly journal, called the "Publishers' Review." Its object is to supply book men with a key to the literary productions of the month, and of forthcoming works. It is one of the most useful publications it has been my pleasure to witness in a long time. The department devoted to music is an exceedingly attractive as well as novel feature in this new journalistic venture.

THE CENTENNIAL.

The Hon. John Bright, the great free trader of England, recently told his countrymen to stay away from the American Centennial Exhibition, because of the high tariff policy of our government. The day following the cable dispatch announcing this action of Mr. Bright, came a request from the Commission of Great Britain to our Exhibition, asking for just double the space allotted to that country.

During the week an authograph letter was received at the Centennial rooms, from Garibaldi, which reads thus:

CARA SIGNORE:—Io faro veramente tutto il possibile poiche il mio paese partecipi alla grandiosa esibizione di Filadelfia.

Dolante di non potere venire io stesso sono. Vestro,

ROME, Apr. 12, 1875. G. GARIBALDI.

[Translation.]

My Dear Sir:—I will certainly make every possible effort to have my country participate in the magnificent celebration which is to be held in Philadelphia. I deeply regret that I shall not be able to come myself.

Truly, G. GARIBALDI.

ROME, April 12, 1875.

OUR EXPORTS.

During the month of April there was exported from the port of Philadelphia, to foreign countries, the following:—Agricultural implements, $15,947; bread and breadstuffs, $1,398,915; carriages, $631; coal, $11,444; cordage, $4,016; cotton, raw, $68,807; cotton manufactures $7,381; dentists' material, $9,200; drugs, $23,732; fruits, $2,043; hair manufactured, $1,761; hay, $899; hides, $40,953; iron manufactures, $57,843; leather and manufactures of $120,300; rosin, $528; oil-cake, $37,534; petroleum, crude, $72,047; refined, $435,054; residium, $9,528; perfumery, $1,500; provisions, $417,225; sewing machines, $3,777; sugar, refined, $661; molasses, $55,492; tallow, $76,011; tobacco, leaf, $17,401; manufactures, $979; wearing apparel, $1,525; boards, $20,517; cooperage, $94,611; wood, $6,358; miscellaneous, $1,738; total, $3,016,307. Of this amount, $913,603 worth was carried in American built vessels and $2,102,704, in foreign bottoms.

EDWIN FORREST.

During the week the late residence of the dead Forrest was offered at public sale. The property is located a mile and a half above the public buildings on Broad street. It has a front of one hundred and eighty feet on Broad street, and about the same in depth. The sum of $101,000 was bid for it, but as the executors hold the property at $110,000 the auctioneer withdrew it.

THE STATE TREASURER.

The Republican party of this city has selected its delegates to the State Convention, which meets this month at Lancaster. The delegation is solid for Gov. Hartranft, but are all at sea in regard to their candidate for Treasurer. I see that the candidates from your part of the State are John B. Linn and John P. Harris. I only know Mr. Harris through your paper but from the endorsement which he receives, I have no doubt but that he would be a strong candidate. This much I will say, that all agree that the ticket shall not be weakened by the nomination of an objectionable candidate, hence only the man whose reputation, like the spouse of the dead Cæsar, is beyond suspicion, can hope to obtain the support of "our boys." I trust to be able to inform you next week on whom their choice has fallen.

MAY 6, 1875.

MESSRS EDITORS.—While there is so much talk and excitement over the country relative to the cause of temperance, and the repeal of the Local Option law in direct opposition to the wishes of the people and especially our own county, there are some things which we cannot fully understand, how men of high moral, social and religious character and ardent advocates of the good cause of temperance could so ease their conscience as to allow them to hand in a petition, praying the court for a grant of license to sell liquor; also, how other equally prominent men can find it in their heart to make excuse for them for so doing, when they surely feel within themselves that it is wrong, and yet we hear they are ready to excuse. Now we well know that if a man was to go to any of these gentlemen with a proposal to defraud his fellow man out of his property or a portion of it, he would spurn him as he would a worthless cur, and yet they hand in a petition, asking for that which is calculated not only to rob pecuniarily, but also to degrade the human family and finally destroy the soul. We cannot bring ourselves to think that, as some say, it is the almighty dollar, for we have too high an estimate of these gentlemen to think they could be influenced by any motive, therefore we give it up and simply say we are sorry.

A LOOKER ON.

SUICIDE OF A LOCK HAVEN BOY.—From the Brooklyn Eagle we clip the following account of a probably successful attempt at suicide by a son of Mr. George Calhoun, of Lock Haven. Mr. Calhoun is a former resident of Bellefonte, having been engaged for a number of years as a workman in the boot and shoe establisment of Mr. Edward Graham. He has many friends in this place who will deeply sympathize with him in his great affliction, the particulars of which, the following recounts. We should add, that the young man is about seventeen years of age, and that he was in all respects an exemplary youth. The sad story is as follows:

A respectably dressed young man, named William Calhoun, made a probably successful attempt to commit suicide, Sunday morning, at eleven o'clock, while standing on the corner of Myrtle avenue and Woodbine street, by placing the muzzle of a revolver to his right ear and discharging the contents of one chamber, after which he fell senseless to the sidewalk. He was removed to the Ninth sub-precinct station house, and ambulance No. 2, Dr. Lindly, telegraphed for. In it he was removed to the E. D. Hospital, where Police Surgeon Brady examined the wound, and found that the ball had entered several inches and embedded itself in a fatty substance, from which it would be dangerous to attempt to remove it at present. The wound will probably prove fatal.

During the afternoon he sufficiently revived to be able to recite the circumstances which led to the rash act. In brief, they tell for thousandth time, the story of a young man from a country town, Lock Haven, Pa., who came to New York with bright hopes of carving the fortune and fame which the history of the "self-made men of our times" offers them as an example. After hunting around the two cities for employment, he fails to find any, and his money being all gone, and without friends, he was driven from his boarding-house in New York. He crossed over to Brooklyn, and rambled about dejectedly with a companion named Charles Williams, for thirty hours, without having tasted food, and slept on the docks at night.

Two short weeks were enough to blight his hopes, and in a fit of desperation, he shot himself through the car, while Williams was in a house near by, begging food for them both. The victim is only 19 years of age, and the revolver which he used on the occasion, was given him by his father, who keeps a boot and shoe store in Lock Haven, as a present.

Before coming to New York he stopped at Philadelphia, and the Young Men's Christian Association, of which Alexander Sloan is superintendent, tried to procure him employment, but failing to do so, gave him a card setting forth that fact, and recommending him to the brethren wherever he might go. Several cards were found in a handsome red morocco pocket-book, one of them being that of a young lady from a town adjoining his native place.

The World's Show of P. T. Barnum.

All questions of both a social and national character, seem to have laterly been swallowed up in the fact that the Great P. T. Barnum's Great Traveling World's Fair, with its thousands of rare animate and inanimate features, vast canvas city concealed wonder treasures from earth, sea and air, and colossal combination of circus troupes, amid a host of pre-eminent mirth and music monarchs, including the phenomenal one, four and seven horse bareback rider, the great Brazilian Lowande; Mme. Dockrill, the most famous and bewitching of all equestriennes; Tony, the child hero; Luke Rivers, the Crichton of the Arena; the incomparable Leshe Brothers; Nathalio Lowande, the champion of calisthenics, and Wm. H. Porter, the silver-tongued humorist, will move upon us, in magnificent procession on Monday next. It would simply be a waste of time and space to reiterate the repeated proofs of what everybody knows—that the great Object Teacher of the age is P. T. Barnum, and his world-wide famous Museum, Menagerie, Caravan and Hippodrome the most stupendous amusement enterprise ever projected. Press and people are unanimous in enthusiastic recognition, and the Pulpit joins in recommendation. Under these circumstances, the number and character of the attendance here may be readily surmised, and the wisdom of putting in an early appearance is self-evident.

LET THE PEOPLE SPEAK.

R. V. PIERCE, Buffalo, N. Y.:

MANHATTAN, Kan.

DEAR SIR—Your Favorite Prescription has done my wife a world of good. She has taken nearly two bottles and has felt better the past two weeks than at any time in the past two yeras. No more periodical pains; none of that aching back or dragging sensation in her stomach she has been accustomed to for several years. I have so much confidence in it that I would be perfectly willing to warrant to certain customers of ours who would be glad to get hold of relief at any expense. I have tried many Patent Medicines, but never had any occasion to extol one before.

Very truly yours,
GEO. B. WHITING.

Mrs. E. R. DALY, Metropolis, Ill., writes:

"Dr. R. V. Pierce—My sister is using the favorite Prescription with great benefit."

MARY ANN FRISBIE, Leham, Pa., writes:

Dr. R. V. Pierce—What I have taken of your medicine has been of more benefit to me than all others and hundreds of doctor's bills.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is sold by dealers in medicines generally.

THE FIRE AT OSHKOSH.

Later Details of the Great Disaster—Loss Two and a Half Million Dollars—Insurance One Million.

CHICAGO, April 30.—A special dispatch to the Inter-Ocean from Oshkosh says: There is no possible way of arriving at the loss of insurance companies by the Oshkosh fire, since all the agencies but one have been burned out and the books are in confusion, while the books of one agency are burned. The insurance with this last named agency, Garry & Harmon's, is estimated at $500,000. The total loss by the fire is thought to be greater than at first reported, and is now put at $2,500,000.

It is estimated in general terms that the insurance is over 50 per cent. of the loss. About 300 families are burned out, and relief is much needed. The city council has appropriated $2,000 for their immediate wants. There is no discouragement among business men and the feeling is strong that rebuilding must commence at once. Several hours' rain to day failed to extinguish the fire which is still burning among the debris. A dispatch from Fond du Lac to the Times says a "deep pall hangs over the city; five times since its foundation has conflagration visited it, but the present calamity is the most crushing of all. This is the third time within a year that fire has desolated it."

This fire took most of the fine residences and homes. The citizens seem utterly helpless and walk the streets with sad faces. The ruins are still smouldering, and when the former owners are asked what they will do, they reply that they cannot tell at present. The offices of the telegraph companies are burned, and the facilities for working are very poor. This added to the general confusion and inability of even those who are losers to give particulars, precludes the possibility of an extended report.

Oshkosh lies on a flat piece of ground, and there is an almost continuous southwest wind, which on this occasion was blowing with great violence. It has been a custom in Oshkosh latterly when a heavy easterly wind was blowing for the mills which are situated in the western part of the city to stop work to prevent fires. A number of mills shut down on Wednesday noon, but Spaulding & Peck refused to stop work, and when Mr. Morgan asked Mr. Peck to do so he was answered abruptly that he (Peck) intended to run his own business.

Shortly afetr this Morgan brothers' mill was observed to be on fire, and in a few minutes the whole building was in flames. Fire companies and thousands of citizens were promptly on hand, but the gale was so fierce, and the material of mills so combustible, that the fire could not be stayed, and speedily drove them from place to place, advancing to the heart of the city. J. N. Davis, clerk in the employ of Morgan Brothers, attempted to save some books from the mill, but, becoming bewildered, was nearly roasted to death before he could find his way out, and expired soon after reaching air. The air was filled with shingles and cinders, which bore destruction to houses as the fire advanced rapidly towards the principal thoroughfares, even the most sanguine gave up hope of checking it, and the city was devastated as already described.

CHICAGO, April 30.—The following insurance companies are known to have lost by the Oshkosh fire in addition to those already sent: Merchantile, of Chicago, $1,200; Allemasines, of Pittsburg, $5,000; Glen's Falls, $3,000; Black River, $2,000; Atlas, of Hartford, $15,000; Niagara of New York, $25,000; German-American, $6,500, Commericial, St. Louis, $3,000; Etna, Hartford, $40,000; Home of New York, $50,000.

LATEST—PROSPECTS BRIGHTENING.

CHICAGO, April 30.—A special to the Times from Oshkosh says the prospect at that city is already brightening, and the probabilities are that before winter the majority of the business blocks will be rebuilt. The debris is cleared away from the principle streets which are thronged with spectators who have come from all directions to see the ruins. Insurance men are present from all parts of the country. They do not take a discouraging view of the conflagration as a general thing and not a few have declared that they will stand ready to renew their risks. The structures burned down were generally pretty well insured, and are owned by men who can afford to rebuild. The vaults of the First National bank were opened and the contents found intact.

Sixty-nine business structures were destroyed, and about half of these will be rebuilt immediately. The police today made a careful count and found that, large and small, the sum total of buildings destroyed is about 500.

——Tobacco and segars at Sechler & Co's in the Bush House block; also, teas of the finest brands, sugars of all kinds, E. X. C. C. A., gradulated; nuts and raisins, canned fruits, hams, cheese, salts, coffee, whole, also the very best burnt and ground "kaughphy," confectionary, beans, crockery, earthenware, wooden ware, sugar house syrup, Turkey and French prunes, dried peaches, preserved Canton ginger, raspberry syrup, pine apple syrup, lemon syrup, strawberry syrup, oranges, lemons, bananas, figs, flavoring extracts, French and English mustards, pickled oysters, English pickles, and everything in the grocery line, at the most reasonable prices. Attentive and accommodating clerks, to attend to all comers. All kinds of country produce taken in exchange for prices paid. Call and see for yourselves. EDITOR'S TABLE.

—CHURCH'S MUSICAL VISITOR for May has arrived, and brighter and better than ever. Without unduly reflecting upon other musical papers, it may be said that the publishers of the VISITOR are making an earnest endeavor to give the art of music a journalistic representative worthy of its importance. The principal contents of this number consist of interesting articles on musical topics, by W. S. B. Mathews, John Howard, Dr. Chomet, F. Crowest, and others. The correspondence is unusually full, and a prominent feature is the space given to information concerning the Cincinnati, May Musical Festival.

There is a pretty poem by D. C. Addison, and the usual quantum of Editorials, Notes, "Hopper," etc.

There are five pieces of music; two songs and choruses, one by Persley and the other by Bliss; a waltz by Root; and the overture to Wagner's "Lohengrin." This music alone is worth more than the price of subscription of the VISITOR, which is only $1.50 per year, including a handsome premium. Specimen copy will be sent to any one on receipt of one stamp, by the publishers, John Church, Cincinnati, Ohio.

—Bright, Cheery, and Useful, with its fifty-five fine engravings and its multitude of practical articles and suggestions, is the AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST for May 1st. Like every other copy this year, the number before us shows a decided improvement over the previous issues of this journal, during its past 33 years of publication. It gives much plain, practical, trustworthy, information for the Household, including the little ones, for the Garden, for the Farm in all its departments—indeed, for all classes. Its bold exposures of Humbugs has been a feature of almost every number for many years. The current Volume is giving a valuable series of practical articles by Prof. Atwater, showing "How Science does and can aid Cultivators;" also a large number of engraved House Plans and Descriptions, with items of Cost, or "Cheap and Convenient Homes for the People" in Country or Village. These last are alone worth many times the cost of this journal, ($1.60 a year post-paid.) Orange Judd Company, Publishers, 225 Broadway, New York.

—"THE SPELLING BEE" a new humorous song and chorus, by Sep. Winner. A funny subject, very jocularly worked up; words and music admirably adapted; has the ring of popularity about it; would prove an effective song for the "Spelling Bees" abounding in our country. Mailed for 30 cents by Lee & Walker, Music Publishers, Philadelphia.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

THE public are hereby assured, through the columns of the REPUBLICAN, that Parsons' Purgative Pills contain no injurious principle, but that they may be administered to children and the most weak and shattered constitutions in small doses, with great certainty of success.

DR. A. Johnson, one of the most successful practitioners of his time, invented what is now called Johnson's Anodyne Liniment. The great success of this article in the cure of Bronchitis and all diseases of throat and lungs, will make the name of Johnson not less favorably, if less widely known, than that of Louis Napoleon.

To all, particularly invalids, spring is a trying season. Indications of sickness should at once be attended to. Fatal diseases may be caused by allowing the bowels to become constipated, and the system to remain in a disorder has time to develop itself. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, is an old and truthful saying. Therefore, we advise all who are troubled with the complaints now very prevalent—headache, indigestion, disordered liver, want of appetite, nausea, or feverish skin to take, without delay, Schenck's Mendrake Pills. We know of no remedy so harmless and decisive in its action. It at once strikes at the root of the disease and produces a healthy tone to the system. People never need suffer from any disease arising from a disordered condition of the liver if they would take this excellent medicine when they feel the first indications of the malady. Families leaving home for the summer months should take three or four boxes of these pills with them. They have an almost instantaneous effect. They will relieve the patient of headache in one or two hours, and will rapidly cleanse the liver of surrounding bile, and will effectually prevent a billious attack. They are sold by all druggist. 18-4t

E. F. KUNKEL'S BITTER WINE OF IRON.

E. F. Kunkel's celebrated Bitter Wine of Iron will effectually cure liver complaint, jaundice, dyspepsia, chronic or nervous debility, chronic diarrhœa, disease of the kidneys, and all diseases arising from a disordered liver, stomach or intestines, such as consumption, flatulence, inward piles, fulness of blood to the head, acidity of the stomach, nausea, heartburn, disgust for food, fulness or weight in the stomach, sore eructations, sinking or fluttering at the pit of the stomach, swimming of the head, hurried or difficult breathing, fluttering at the heart, choking or suffocating sensations when in a lying posture, dimness of vision, dots or webs before the sight, dull pains in the head, deficiency of presperation, yellowness of the skin and eyes, pain in the side, back, head, chest, limbs, etc., sudden flushes of heat, burning in the flesh, constant imaginings of evil and great depression of spirits. Price $1 per bottle. Beware of counterfeit. Do not let your druggist palm off some other preparation of iron he may say is as good, but ask for Kunkel's Bitter Wine of Iron. Take no other. Kunkel's Bitter Wine of Iron is not sold in bulk—only $1 bottles. E. F. Kunkel, Proprietor, No. 259 North Ninth Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Sold by Druggists and dealers everywhere.

TAPE WORM

Entirely removed with purely vegetable medicine, passing from the system alive. No fee unless the head passes. Come and refer to patients treated. DR. E. P. Kunkel, No. 259 North Ninth Street, Philadelphia. Advice free. Scat, Pin and Stomach Worms removed. Ask your druggist for a bottle of Kunkel's Worm Syrup. Price $1 per dollar. It never fails.

Bellefonte Markets.

BELLEFONTE, May 12, 1875.

Our town trade was somewhat better during the latter part of last week, than it was the week previous; but the merchants generally complain of dull times, are disposed to do as much business on a cash basis as possible, hence credit is not at a premium by any means. The trade in grain is very limited.

WHEAT.—We again advance our quotations for wheat, over last week, and remark, that the market is firm, but there is none coming in or the competition among our town buyers would be lively. We suggest to the farmers who have wheat for sale that it will be well for them to canvass our buyers before selling.

CORN.—The corn market is very quiet. There is very little offered, and not much wanted.

RYE AND OATS—Are nominal.

HAY—Is very scarce and wanted. It is said that choice timothy hay would sell for thirty dollars per ton in Bellefonte.

STRAW—Is in demand. Long rye sells for fabulous prices.

BUTTER—Comes in very slowly and commands a fair price for a good article. Some of our merchants are now buying for immediate wants in an Eastern market.

Kidney Complaint

Probably there is no complaint that afflicts the human system, which is so little understood at the present time, as some of the varied forms of Kidney Complaints.

There is no disease which causes such acute pain or more alarming in its results than when the kidneys fail to secrete from the blood the urie acid, and other poisonous substances, which the blood accumulates in its circulation through the system.

If from any cause the kidneys fail to perform the functions devolving upon them, the cumulations are taken up by the absorbents and the whole system thrown into a state of disease, causing great pain and suffering, and very often immediate death. Hence the importance of keeping the kidneys and blood in a healthy condition, through which all the impurities of the body must pass.

PAIN IN THE BACK.

There is no remedy known to medical science which has proved itself more valuable in cases of Kidney Complaints than the VEGETINE. It acts directly upon the secretions, cleanses and purifies the blood, and restores the whole system to healthy action.

The following extraordinary cure of great sufferers, who had been given up by the best physicians as hopeless cases, will speak for themselves, and should challenge the most profound attention to the medical faculty, as well as of those who are suffering from Kidney Complaint.

THE BEST MEDICINE.

EAST MARSHFIELD, Aug. 22, 1870.

MR. STEVENS: Dear Sir—I am seventy-one years of age; have suffered many years with Kidney Complaint, weakness in my back and stomach. I was induced by friends to try your VEGETINE, and I think it the best medicine for weakness of the kidneys I ever used. I have tried many remedies for this complaint and never found so much relief as from the VEGETINE. It strengthens and invigorates the whole system. Many of my acquaintances have taken it, and I believe it to be good for all the complaints for which it is recommended. Yours truly,

JOSIAH H. SHARMAN.

PRONOUNCED INCURABLE.

BOSTON, May 30, 1871.

H. R. STEVENS, Esq: Dear Sir—I have been badly afflicted with Kidney Complaint for ten years; have suffered great pain in my back, hips and side, with great difficulty in passing urine, which was often, and in very small quantities, frequently, accompanied with blood and excrutiating pain.

I have faithfully tried most of the popular remedies recommended for my complaint; I have been under the treatment of some of the most skillful physicians in Boston, all of whom pronounced my case incurable. This was my condition when I was advised by a friend to try the VEGETINE, and I could see the good effects from the first dose I took, and from that moment I kept on improving until I was entirely cured, taking in all, I should think, about six bottles.

It is indeed a valuable medicine and if I should be afflicted again in the same way, I would give a dollar a dose, if I could not get it without. Respectfully,

J. M. GILE.
361 Third Street, South Boston.

NEARLY BLIND.

H. R. STEVENS: Dear Sir—In expressing my thanks to you for benefits derived from the use of VEGETINE, and to benefit others, I will state:—

When eight or nine years old I was afflicted with Scrofula, which made its appearance in my eyes, face and head, and I was very near blind for two years. All kinds of operations were performed on my eyes, all to no good result. Finally the disease principally settled in my body, limbs and feet, and at times in an aggravated way.

Last Summer I was, from some cause, weak in my spine and kidney, and it was at times very hard to retain the urine. Seeing your advertisement in the Commercial, I bought a bottle of VEGETINE, and commenced using according to directions. In two or three days I obtained great relief. After using four or five bottles I noticed it had a wonderful effect on the rough scaly blotches on my body and legs. I still use Vegetine and the humorous sores one after another disappeared until they were all gone, and I attributed the cure of the two diseases to Vegetine, and nothing else.

If I am ever effected with anything of the kind again I shall try Vegetine as the only reliable remedy. Once more accept thanks, and believe me to be, Very respectfully,

HUSTIN PARROTT.
No. 35 Gano St., Cincinnati, O.

Diseases of the Kidneys, Bladder, etc., are always unpleasant, and at times they become the most distressing and dangerous diseases that can affect the human system. Most diseases of Kidneys arise from impurities in the blood, causing humors which settle on these parts. Vegetine excels any known remedy in the whole world for cleansing and purifying the blood, thereby causing a healthy action to all the organs of the body.

VEGETINE is sold by all druggists.

AN ORDINANCE.

Be it ordained and enacted by the Town Council of the Borough of Bellefonte, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same.

SECTION 1st.—That every person or persons who shall be found on any street or any public place within the bounds of said borough making noise and confusion or using obscene or profane language, or behaving in other disorderly manner or any wise disturbing the peace and good order of the borough, or whoever may be found lounging upon door steps, cellar doors or other private property without permission or against the wish of the owner thereof, or doing injury to public or private property; or lounging on street corners, around lamp posts or on the bridges of said borough during the night time, shall be liable to arrest by any police officer or high constable of said borough, and it shall be the duty of any police officer or high constable as aforesiad to arrest all persons so offending, and upon conviction thereof before the Chief Burgess or Justice of the Peace, of said borough, shall pay a fine of not less than one dollar and not more than five dollars each, and costs of prosecution, at the discretion of the Chief Burgess or Justice of the Peace before whom the case shall have been tried, and in case any person or so sentenced shall refuse or omit to pay the fine imposed and costs, every such person shall be duly committed to the common jail of Centre county, for any length of time not exceeding twenty-four hours, at the discretion of the said Chief Burgess or Justice of the Peace.

Ordained and enacted this 19th day of April, A. D., 1875.

Attest ROBERT VALENTINE, President.
J. H. RANKIN, Sect.

Approved the 29th day of March A. D., 1875.

BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN

BELLEFONTE, PA.

Agricultural.

"SHE LOVED MUCH."

(Among the numerous poems of the Magdalene, the following, taken from Tinsley's Magdalene, is worthy of place and remembrance:)

"She loved much." She was the legend sweet
That circled her in Magdalene of yore,
Who, dearest, thine expressive title bore;
And e, to shadow forth thyself how meet;

She sits beside the loving Master's feet,
She laves them with her tears and golden tresses.
And every act of after-life expresses
How like she was to Him she came to greet.

Tradition names her sinner. We as saint
Know her alone, in page of holy writ,
As one who joyed with Him, her love, to sit;
As one whom every artist learns to paint.

Filled with a love unswerving and ne'er faint,
Ready to suffer every earthly loss,
First at the tomb, as last beside the cross;
Thrice blest a love like hers that knows no earthly taint!

Thoughts of Spring.

We receive the REPUBLICAN regularly and think it is one of the best papers in the state, and not the least interesting part of it to me is your agricultural department. I do not know as I shall be able to write anything that will interest the men very much, for if I did it would have to be about hard times, a backward spring, &c. We ladies don't have anything to do with hard times, and we believe in a forward spring. Already the chilly, pneumonia days have left us, and those tired of waiting for warm, sunshiny weather, are beginning to cheer up under the influence of the spring birds, and rising thermometers. It has been almost too cold to be good this winter, and really laughable to see stout men ride by, bundled up like babies, with shawls and mufflers, as they never did before. O, winter! winter! "where are the charms that others have seen in thy face?" I sometimes think a person who can prefer winter as a season, must be as cold as the winding snow sheets they love, and that they can have nothing warm or hopeful about them. It is a pity that all such could not take a trip to the Polar regions, and enjoy it to the happiest extent. But I forgot. It is time for May flowers. What buoyancy and elasticity of spirit, it gives one to ramble through the woods, with a party of kindred spirits, in search of May flowers; to inhale the fresh air, and make it resound with pleasant words, happy songs, and exclamations of pleased surprise, when the largest and lovliest of the pink and white blossoms are discoverd, and what fragrance, we enjoy on our return, with over-flowing baskets of Nature's sweets, to arrange in bouquets for the benefit of the home circle. Aunt Betsey will advise all flower seekers to remember their rubbers, and so I will say nothing about them, only I think such advise is good as gold. Arrange a bouquet of your flowers for your sick friend, who is denied the happy privileges you enjoy, and would no doubt be thankful to have some placed where she may admire them. Besides, "Tis sweet to be remembered."

Another healthy occupation for us this spring, is the repairing of our flower-gardens. Those that can spare the time will see that the morning glories, and sweet peas are looked after in due season; also the delicious honeysuckle and many others, that will be so enjoyable by-and-by. The employment of cultivating flowers is not only good for health, and peace of mind, but probably more good-will has arisen, and friendship been formed by the intercourse and communication connected with this pursuit, than from any other. It is raining as I write, but through it all, I can imagine I see the blooming orchards, the golden dandelions, the fresh and vigorous looking green grass and leaves, and last, but not least, the merry bobolinks, who will sing away all care, and make us almost as joyous as the summer which is at hand.

HELEN MANSFIELD.

Farm, Garden and Household.

STARVED OFF THE FARM.

The forsaking of the farm for city life is one of the great evils of the time, and, so far, it has received no appreciable check. Every young man, apparently, who thinks he can get a living in the city, or at the minor centres of population, quits his lonely home upon the farm and joins the multitude. Once in the city, he never returns. Notwithstanding the confinement and the straitened condition of his new life, he clings to it until he dies, adding his family to the permanent population of his new home.

Mr. Greeley, in his days of active philanthropy, used to urge men to leave the city—to go West—to join the agricultural population—and thus make themselves sure of a competent livelihood. He might as well have talked to the wind. A city population can neither be coaxed nor driven into agricultural pursuits. It is not that they are afraid of work. The average worker in the city toils more hours than the average farmer in any quarter of the country. He is neither lodged nor fed as well as the farmer. He is less independent than the farmer. He is bond-slave to his employer and his conditions; yet the agricultural life has no charms for him.

Whatever the reason for this may be, it is not based in the nature of the work, or in its material rewards. The farmer is demonstrably better off than the worker of the city. He is more independent, has more command of his own time, fares better at the table, lodges better, has a return for his labor. What is the reason, then that the farmers' boy runs to the city, the first chance he can get, and remains, if he can possibly find there the means to support life.

It can only be found, we believe in the social leanness, or social starvation, of American agricultural life. The American farmer, in all his planting, and all his building, has never made provision for life. He has only considered the means of getting a living. Everything outside of this—everything relating to society and culture—has been steadily ignored. He gives his children the advantages of schools, not recognizing the fact that these very advantages call into life a new set of social wants. A bright, well educated family, in a lonely farm house, is a different material from a family brought up in ignorance. An American farmer's children, who have had a few terms at the neighboring academy, resembles in no degree the children of the European peasant. They come home with new ideas and new wants, and if there is no provision made for these new wants, and they find no opportunities for their satisfaction, they will be ready, on reaching their majority, to fly the farm and seek the city.

If the American farmer wishes to keep his children near him, he must learn the difference between living and getting a living: and we mistake him and his grade of culture altogether if he does not stop over this statement and wonder what we mean by it. To get a living, to make money, to become "forehand"—this is the whole of life to agricultural multitudes, discouraging in their numbers to contemplate. To them there is no difference between living and getting a living. Their whole life consists in getting a living. And when their families come back to them from their schooling and find that, really this is the only pursuit that has any recognition under the parental roof, they must go away. The boys push to the centres or the cities, and the girls follow them if they can. A young man or a young woman, raised to the point where they apprehend the difference between living and getting a living, can never be satisfied with the latter alone. Either the farmer's children must be kept ignorant, or provision must be made for their social wants. Brains and hearts need food and clothing as well as bodies, and those who have learned to recognize brains and hearts, as the best and most important part of their personal possessions, will go where they can find the ministry they need.

What is the remedy? How shall farmers manage to keep their children near them? How can we discourage the influx of unnecessary—nay, burdensome—population into cities? We answer: By making agricultural society attractive. Fill the farm houses with periodicals and books. Establish central reading rooms, or neighborhood clubs. Encourage the social meeting of the young. Have concerts, lectures, amateur dramatic associations. Establish a bright, active, life, that shall give some significance to labor. Above all, build, as far as possible, in villages. It is better to go a mile to one's daily labor than to place one's self a mile away from a neighbor. The isolation of American farm-life is the great source of that life, and it falls upon the women with a hardship that the men cannot appreciate, and drives the educated young away.

The officers of the Missouri Grand Lodge of Good Templars have issued a spirited circular to the 400 lodges and 20,000 members of the State, urging to active work, the circulation of a sound literature, favoring pure temperance songs in the lodge-room, and calling upon voters to see to it that anti-license and anti-whisky men are elected to local offices at the Spring elections.

TEMPERANCE NEWS.

Susan B. Anthony is lecturing on temperance in Wisconsin.

A Woman's State Convention is soon to be held in California.

Thomas Whittaker has returned from a lecturing trip in Massachusetts, and is spending the month of May in the West.

The temperance fair in Cincinnati lasted a week, and was the most complete success of any fair of the kind ever held in that city.

The Philadelphia Temperance Convention to nominate candidates for Governor and State Treasurer will meet at Harrisburg on June 26.

Many towns and counties in Kentucky and North Carolina vote in May under the "local option" law, and it is believed quite a number will vote prohibition.

A State Convention of Christian Woman has been called to meet in St. Louis the 20th of May, to organize and "mature plans for active work."

A "Coffee House and Christain Home" has been established at 907 Collowhill street, Philadelphia, by the Woman's Union Temperance Praying Band.

The Chicago ladies hold daily prayer-meetings in Lower Farwell Hall, with excellent results. Some 600 have signed the pledge, and many have been converted.

During the past Winter there have been over a thousand reclaimed in the city of Portland, Me., most of whom stand firm. Temperance meetings are held nearly every evening.

The St. Louis Conferance of the M. E. Church adopted resolutions favoring prohibitions, unfermented wine at communion, against the use of tobacco, sympathy with the Woman's movement, etc.

Maine now prohibits the carriage of liquor into or through the State, for purpose of sale in the State, by express companies, runners, steamboat companies, and stages. Any such goods so carried may be seized in transit.

In Kansas, where the Grangers are very influential, they have adopted the most radical measures in favor of temperance, refusing admission to any person who sells intoxicating liquor, or any drunkard whom the efforts of the Grange have failed to reform.

The Lodge of Good Templars of North Carolina have succeeded in obtaining an amendment to the Local Option Act, so that when a vote for prohibition is once obtained the law shall remain in force until changed by an election got up by the license side of the question.

A new feature of the temperance movement has been inaugurated at Albany. Feeling that the principle of secrecy in temperance societies was to be deprecated, and yet seeing that open societies needed more cohesive force and better organization than they now possess, a number of prominent temperance men, including several clergymen, have adopted a middle course, and started a society embracing all the best features of the secret societies, and discarding such as were considered elements of weakness. The State body will grant charters to the local councils, entitling them to representation, and will hold the latter to thorough work. The new departure is widely viewed with favor.

LEE & WALKER, Phlada.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

Is widely known as one of the most effectual remedies ever discovered for cleansing the system and purifying the blood. It has stood the test of years, with a constantly growing reputation, based on its intrinsic virtues, and sustained by its remarkable cures. So mild as to be safe and beneficial to children, and yet so searching as to effectually purge out the great corruptions of the blood, such as the scrofulous and syphilitic contamination. Impurities or diseases that have lurked in the system for years soon yield to this powerful antidote, and disappear. Hence its wonderful cures, many of which are publicly known, of Scrofula, and all scrofulous diseases, Ulcers, Eruptions, and eruptive disorders of the skin, Tumors, Blotches, Boils, Pimples, Pustules, Sores, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, and internal Ulcerations of the Uterus, Stomach, and Liver. It also cures other complaints, to which it would not seem especially adapted, such as Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Fits, Neuralgia, Heart Disease, Female Weakness, Debility, and Leucorrhœa, when they are manifestations of the scrofulous poisons.

It is an excellent restorer of health and strength in the Spring. By renewing the appetite and vigor of the digestive organs, it dissipates the depression and listless languor of the season. Even where no disorder appears, people feel better, and live longer, for cleansing the blood. The system moves on with renewed vigor and a new lease of life.

Prospectus.

THE ILLUSTRATED HOUSEHOLD MAGAZINE, WITH WHICH IS INCORPORATED
WOOD'S HOUSEHOLD MAGAZINE.

It is the intention of the conductors of this Magazine to still further make it a model of literary and mechanical excellence, and, with this view, no advantage will be neglected which either talent or capital can command to render each issue an agreeable and instructive compendium of

POPULAR READING.

Its pages will be devoted to popular literature, science, art, education and social development. Its characteristic feature is comprehensiveness. The manuscripts now on hand, and others especially engaged, embrace an usually attractive list of

DESCRIPTIVE SKETCHES OF TRAVEL,
SERIAL STORIES, TALES, POEMS,
PAPERS ON SCIENCE AND ART,
POPULAR ESSAYS, NARRATIVES, LITERARY CRITICISMS, FASHIONS, etc.,

together with a variety of able and interesting articles upon the important Questions of the Day. A large portion of the articles, especially those descriptive of travel, will be

PROFUSELY ILLUSTRATED.

The pictorial embellishments of the Magazine hereafter constituting one of its most attractive features.

The purpose of the Publishers is to furnish a periodical which shall be instructive in THE HOUSEHOLD, THE LIBRARY and THE READING ROOM, giving an abundance of entertaining and popular literature and information for both old and young, carrying light comfort and good nature into every family, and making it acceptible for the whole Household—father and mother, boys and girls, young men and young women.

THE ILLUSTRATED HOUSHOLD MAGAZINE

includes several DISTINCT DEPARTMEMTS, each under competent and efficient management, viz:

1. SKETCHES—consisting of Descriptions of Travel and Adventure, Serial Stories, Tales and Narratives, lavishly and appropriately illustrated.
2. MISCELLANY—made up of brilliant extracts from new books, highly entertaining sketches of notable persons and things from the best Foreign Publications, Poems and Papers on Science and Art.
3. EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT—in which is given brilliant essays upon a wide range of subjects; social topics discussed and current incidents and doings glanced at.
4. FASHION DEPARTMENT—containing a resume of the Paris, London and New York Fashions, illustrated with ingraving of the latest styles.
5. LETERARY NOTES—devoted to reviews and criticisms of new books and general information.
6. CHILDREN'S DEPARTMENT—furnishes instruction and entertainment to the Boys and Girls, and those older people who have young hearts. It is embellished with high class illustrations of Natural History, Wonderful Scenery and rare incidents.
7. HOUSEKEEPER'S DEPARTMENT—comprising information and receipts, many of which are original and published for the first time all collected from the most authentic sources.

It will be the constant aim of the HOUSEHOLD PUPLISHING COMPANY to make THE ILLUSTRATED HOUSEHOLD MAGAZINE in the future, as WOOD'S HOUSEHOLD MAGAZINE has been in the past,

THE BEST DOLLAR MONTHLY PUBLISHED,

sparing neither effort, trouble nor expense in securing the BEST WRITERS as contributors, and the BEST ARTISTS to produce illustrations to enrich its pages.

AGENTS WANTED.—We require a good FAITHFUL AGENT in every town throughout the United States and Canada, who will earnestly engage in the business of procuring subscribers—not for a few days or a month only, but permanently—with a firm determination to canvass thoroughly and carefully the entire field selected, improving every opportunity to realize all that can be made from the introduction of the Magazine.

OUR PREMIUM AND CLUBBING LISTS offer great inducements for working in our behalf. Schools and Churches have here an unusual opportunity to procure Musical Instruments from the best manufacturers, with comparatively slight exertions. Artisans, Professional Men and Students may gratify their literary tastes by ordering from the Clubbing Lists. Children may earn and own many long and desired articles by obtaining the few subscribers required.

TERMS—YEARLY SUBSCRIPTION, $1.00.

Specimen Copies mailed, post-paid, to any address upon receipt of ten cents.

The postage within the United States is Ten Cents a year, which must be forwarded with the subscription, as the new Postal Law requiring the prepayment of postage on all magazines by publishers themselves, instead of subscribers, compels us to collect the postage in advance.

Send for Circulars containing rates of commission and inducements to canvassers, and the Premium and Clubbing Lists.

THE YOSEMITE VALLEY.

We continue to offer this celebrated Oil Chromo in connection with the ILLUSTRATED HOUSEHOLD MAGAZINE, furnishing them to our subscribers upon the following very generous terms:

MEDICAL.

CHEROKEE REMEDY.

THE GREAT INDIAN DIURETIC, INFINITELY SUPERIOR TO BUCHU.

Nine tenths of the human family suffer, directly or indirectly, at one time or other, from diseases or irregularities of the generative system, while the victims of indiscretion, and of quack treatment, are comparatively numerous.

The idea that patients cannot treat themselves successfully in these cases, has long ago been exploded. A good and reliable medicine, prepared by an experienced physician, from the original Indian Recipe, that is guaranteed to effect a can be as safely relied upon as the prescription of the most skillful practitioner. Such a medicine is the celebrated

CHEROKEE REMEDY.

Full directions accompany each bottle, and if they are carefully followed, a quick and permanent cure is guarranteed. Price $2.00 per bottle.

THE CHEROKEE INJECTION, should always be used in conjunction with the Remedy for both incipient and obstinate cases of Gonorrhœa. Price $2.00 per bottle.

CHEROKEE CURE

for seminal weakness (spermatorrhœa), is a simple vegetable medicine that was used for many years in the practice of the physician who first gave the remedy to the public. It has effected cures that would scarcely be credited except on ocular evidence of the fact. Full directions, with pamphlet containing all particulars of symptoms, treatment, &c., accompany each bottle. Price $2.00 per bottle. Sold everywhere.

CHEROKEE PILLS.

These Pill are prepared expressly for the cure of those irregularities to which ladies are subject, and will be found safe, reliable and effectual, for the cure of Suppression, Green Sickness, Pain in the Back, Hysteria, Sick Headache, &c., &c. Price $1.00 per box.

Heimstreet's Hair Restorative,

OR INIMITABLE HAIR COLORING.

NOT A DYE.—Heimstreet's "Hair Coloring is not a Dye, and its operation is not by any chemical effect, but by a natural restoration of the glands, thus giving the hair the color it originally had.

NATURALNESS.—When the hair is dyed, its color is leaden hued and unnatural, but when restored by HEIMSTREET'S HAIR COLORING, its appearance is so perfectly natural that no one can detect the use of any Restorative.

STAINLESS.—While the Restorative acts promptly on the hair, it leaves no stain or mark whatever on the skin. It is composed of ingredients that form a perfect dressing as well as a coloring, so that no oils, &c., are necessary.

THIS MOST EFFECTIVE of all the Hair Restorers is for sale by all druggists at 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle. Numerous certificates from those who have used it are in the possession of the proprietors.

PARK'S BALSAM

OR

WILD CHERRY AND TAR.

BALSAM.—Nothing is more soothing to the irritated membranes than the pure BALSAMS of which this medicine is composed.

WILD CHERRY.—The true bark of Wild Cherry is an unfailing specific for all throat and pectorial diseases.

TAR.—The wonderful healing properties of Tar when united with the other ingredients, render PARK'S BALSAM the most efficient Cough Medicine ever offered to the public.

CONSUMPTION.—The many cases of Consumption that have been cured justify us in the assertion that it is the very best medicine for that disease ever discovered.

CERTIFICATES OF CURES.

STEPHEN FISK, of New York, says his daughter had consumption, and terbucles had formed in her lungs. He was induced to try Park's Balsam, which effected a speedy cure.

T. EDWARD FLEET, of Brooklyn says, I think it is the best medicine for affections of the lungs I ever used.

G. S. FANCHER, of New York says, I feel fully persuaded that Park's Balsam has saved my life.

We have in our possession hundreds of certificates from others, and all of the same cheering import. Price 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by druggists and dealers everywhere.

Address all orders to JOHN F. HENRY, CURRAN & CO., 8 and 9 College Place, New York.

EGYPTIAN

Rat and Vermin Destroyer

FOR EXTERMINATING RATS, MICE, WATER BUGS, ROUCHES, RED ANTS, &c.

STRENGTH.—When a Rat tastes the Egyptian Destroyer, his death warrant is signed, sure. It cannot fail to kill. It also creates great thirst, and the rat will search for water out of doors, and not die in his hole, to cause a stench that cannot be got out.

ATTRACTIVENESS.—Rats are the shrewdest of vermin. It is hard to get them to eat poison. An ingredient in the Egyption Destroyer is a perfect bait, and they are attracted rather than freightened be it. "Rats (not children) cry for it.

KEEPING SOFT.—People know how the ordinary Rat Pastes dry up and become useless, causing annoyance and loss. The Egyptian Destroyer is fully warranted to keep soft, fresh and effective in any climate for years.

SURE DEATH.—The Egyptian Destroyer kills every time. Hundreds of unsolicited testimonials are now in the hands of the proprietors, substantiating its great merits as the best preparation for destroying Vermin in the world. Be sure and ask for the "Egyptian," and take no other.

Put up in large glass bottles. Price, 25 cts. Sold by Druggists everywhere.

HOLLOWAY'S Pills and Ointment

EVERY MAN HIS OWN PHYSICIAN.

THE GRAND PRINCIPLE that operates in these wonderful medicines is the power that they possess in purifying the turbid blood, and expelling corrupt humors from the system.

Both the ointment and Pills should be used in the following cases: Bunions, Burns, Chapped hands, Chilblains, Fistula, Gout, Limbago, Mercurial Eruptions, Piles, Rheumatism, Ring-Worms, Salt Rheums, Scalds, Skin Diseases, Swelled Glands, Sore Legs, Sore Breasts, Sore Heads, Sore Throats, Sores of all kinds, Sprains, Stiff Joints, Tetter, Ulcers, Venereal sores, Wounds of all kinds.

USE HOLLOWAY'S EXPECTORANT for the absolute cure of Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Hoarseness, Pains in the Chest, and all affections of the Pulminary nature.

CAUTION.

Be careful and see that each bottle has the Holloway and Co. trade mark on it.

Price, 25cts., 62cts., and $1.00; great saving in buying large sizes.

MEDICAL.

Wright's Rejuvenating Elixer.

For the restoration of Nature's forces. It gives new life and vigor to the aged, and causes the blood of youth to course through the veins. It effectually cures Impotency, Palpitation of the Heart, Loss of Muscular Power, Low Spirits, Disorganization of the Generative Organs, and all the train of ills that follow in the path of the transgressor of Nature's laws. Price $2 per bottle.

It will be readily understood that in the brief space afforded by the advertising columns of a public print, it is impossible to give all particulars of the diseases that may be cured by the CHEROKEE MEDICINES. That they are destined to become immensely popular is plainly obvious in consequence of their

GREAT INTRINSIC MERIT.

The pamphlet and circulars that accompany the medicines give all the information which cannot be given here, and the remedies may be had of any respectable druggist.

How doth the little spelling bee
Improve the average speller,
And give many a lovely lass,
A chance to catch a feller.

——The Centre county jail is losing its popularity and patronage. Something is the matter; there is not a single prisoner within its walls.

——After an unimpassioned survey of the situation it is our opinion that the present generation will not live to see the completion of the L. C. & S. C. railroad.

——Decoration Day will be duly observed in this place, under direction of Post Bayard G. A. R. As the 30th falls on Sunday, Saturday the 29th has been agreed upon, throughout the state, as the day.

——Washington Iron Works, including all stock and fixtures and 7.500 acres of land, have been leased by Jacob Yearick of Nittany. Mr. Y. tood possession May 1st, and is now putting things in shape preparatory to carrying on the business to its full capacity.

——D. H. Hastings, Esq., last week was admitted to the bar of this county. Mr. Hastings will no doubt rise in the profession to which he has just been admitted, as he is both a gentlemen and scholar. Success to him.—Centre Hall Reporter.

Thanks, Mr. Kurtz.

Stitzer & Magee.—This is the name of the latest law firm in Centre, Ex-District Attorney Stitzer having taken Esq. Magee in as a partner. Both these gentlemen are so well known in this County that words of praise from us would be superfluous. We wish them abundant success.

——McClure's Times, in speaking of the appointment of Major Forster to a position on Gen. McCandless' staff, says that "he is a gallant soldier and a liberal Republican." There is no doubt of the major's martial gallantry, but he is about as much of a liberal Republican as Mrs. Harshberger is a granger.

——Professor Heinle thinks some of his Democratic friends sold him out in the contest for the County Superintendency. Well, there were plenty of candidates who have been sold out plenty of times by the same parties before Mr. Heinle's turn came. Put not your trust in princes, nor in the men in whom there is no help.

——John Irwin, Esq., was last week admitted to practice in the various courts of Centre county. Mr. Irwin's committee consisted of D. S. Keller, J. S. Barnhart, and C. A. Bower, Esq's. who report that Mr. Irwin stood a creditable examination. Mr. I. is a young man of great promise and we bespeak for him a brilliant future.

Lost.—On the evening of the fire, a memorandum book, containing papers of no value except to the owner. There is a note, and bills and accounts against various parties. The book had a black cover and the name of James Zimmerman, on inside of cover. The finder will be suitably rewarded by returning the same to the owner.

James Zimmerman,
Z 19-2t Milesburg.

——Mr. Thompson M. Walker of Calvert, says our correspondent, had a very serious run-off on Friday. He had a horse and buggy from Rote's livery stables of this place. The breaking of an axle spilled him and his girl out injuring both somewhat. After repairing the buggy the injured couple proceeded to Milesburg where the axle was welded. Then the young couple went off to a preacher's and got married. They are not the kind of people to be discouraged by broken axles.

——Our correspondent from Calvert says that "Calvert" in the name of a new post office started at what used to be called Marsh Creek, seven miles north east of Bellefonte. At Calvert, Messrs. Thill and Robb carry on a first-class general merchandising store, and D. W. Heaton hammers out an honest living at blacksmithing; a large flouring mill is soon to be built on the creek, and other improvements are to be made which will place Calvert among the list of Centre County's thriving little burgs.

——We notice that the Republicans of a number of our neighboring counties have instructed their delegates whom to vote for for all the offices to be filled at the Lancaster Convention on the 28th of this month. The Republican party machinery seems to be tightening down on men and measures in such a firm and systematic manner, that delegates are no longer allowed to go from their counties uninstructed to the state council. This is, we think, an indication of no uncertain kind, that the rank and file of the party are firmly set in their determination to carry the state next fall. The best men are being picked out, for the lesson has been taught that party lines will no longer constrain men to vote for unfit persons because they have renewed the nomination of their party. We are also gratified to notice that in the counties in this portion of the state where they have instructed their representatives to vote for the renomination of Governor Hartranft, that they have also been instructed to cast their ballots for Hon. John B. Linn for State Treasurer. The latest action of this kind was in Snyder County as will be seen from the following extract from the report of the county committee, which we copy from the Freeburg Courier:

Pursuant to a call the members of the Republican Standing Committee met in the Commissioners' office, Middleburg, at 2 o'clock P. M. on Tuesday last.

The meeting was called to order by J. A. Lumbard, Esq., Chairman. The Secretary, Ner. B. Middleswarth, called the roll when it was found that all the members of the Committee were present either in person or by proxy, excepting those from Jackson and Perry.

The Committee proceeded to select delegates to the next State Convention. The names of Dr. B. F. Wagenseller, of Selinsgrove, for Senatorial delegate. and Col. Thomas Shellenberger, of West Perry, for Representative delegate were the only persons presented and were unanimously elected. The delegates were instructed to cast their first ballot in favor of the re-nomination of Gov. Jno. F. Hartranft, of Montgomery county, for Governor, and Hon. John B. Linn, of Centre County, for State Treasurer.

——The Democratic Auditor General, Mr. Temple, retains Mr. Olmstead, a republican, in his office as one of his clerks. Can our republican friends point to any such generous action on the part of their office-holders? We guess not.—Watchman.

No, sir: but Mr. Temple could not find a Democrat in the State who was able to fill Olmstead's place, and, being too much of a blockhead to manage the affairs of the Auditor General's office himself, he was compelled to get an intelligent Republican to run the concern for him. It was an act of great generosity on the part of Mr. Olmstead to help him out. There's a difference between Democratic generosity and Democratic incompetency which our neighbor has not perhaps discovered in the above case.

——The divinity that shapes our ends doesn't seem to take hold very young—least ways, not until the muscular school master goes out of fashion.

——The freckle season has commenced in earnest.

——The difference between the moon and ourselves at present is that the moon is on her first quarter and we are on our last.

——The annual prediction about the fruit crop has got around rather earlier this season. It was made last year in the latter part of May, but statistics show that about the regular number died of cholora morbus during the summer.

——A diligent and prayerful reading of Plato, the history of France, and the colonial archives of Pennsylvania has convinced an up town gentleman that he should start a newspaper to be called the "Industrial Advocate." There's millions in it.

——Now is the time for the professional gardener to call around to train your grape vines, sod the plat in front of your house, bury fifty dollars worth of bulbs in the back yard, and take away whatever loose change you have saved from the plumber to support you during the summer.

——The ladies of the M. E. Church are arranging for a grand vocal and instrumental concert, for the benefit of the new M. E. Church. The concert will come off some time during the latter part of this month. All the leading musical talent of Bellefonte will take part in the entertainment.

Reformed Bee.—Our friends of the Reformed Church will have a Spelling Bee on Saturday evening next, for the benefit of their church. Some new features will be introduced into the exercises which will make it perhaps the most interesting and entertaining of all the funny "bees" we have had in Bellefonte. The object is a worthy one and we hope they will have a crowded house.

——The Unionville fire on Friday was not so disastrous as at first reported. The store of Leathers & Buck was slightly damaged, the fire having originated in an upper story of the building. The roof and other upper part of the house was almost destroyed before the flames were overpowered. No damage was done to the store by fire, but the floods of water from above did considerable injury to the goods.

——The Lock Haven Republican tells rather a tough Bull Story: It says recently the mail train East run into Col. Noyes' bull, threw him on to the cow catcher and carried him through the bridge and below the depot, a distance of about one fourth of a mile, without injury. We once heard of one of these animals butting an engine off of the bridge, but a bull caught on a cow catcher! Well, well, that's certainly a queer sight.

——We notice that W. B. Wagner a sewing machine agent, and local preacher of Milroy has come to grief and been lodged in jail in Lewistown, for forging the name of his father-in-law, Mr. Shirk of this county, to a bond for $200, and given to the Howe Sewing Machine Company. To sell Sewing Machines and dabble in religion don't work well here, it might in Brooklyn. Brother Wagner, whilst gazing through the bars, knows How it is himself.

——Barnum's Mammoth Show will be in town on next Monday, and thousands of people will be on hand to see the curiosities, and while the show is acknowledged to be a good one we would suggest that there are curiosities in town as well worth seeing as Barnum's, for instance, the magnificent new "Arctic" soda, apparatus at Green's Drug Store. We understand that Mr. Green intends furnishing the public in addition to the delicious soda water for which his establishment is famed, that healthy and delightful beverage "Peruvian Beer" which he proposes to place at the moderate price of five cents a glass, he also intends keeping the different mineral waters such as Kissengen, Vichy, Geyser, Congress, Bedford, etc. He expects to have his fountain in running order by the last of the week.

Personals.—James T. Hale, Esq., came into town unexpectedly on Wednesday last, and reported that he had been well and happy for the last year, while living in Newark, Ohio. He has been carrying on the real estate business with his father-in-law under the firm name of Burkey & Hale in the above town, and his friends hereabouts will be pleased to learn that he has been making money, hand over fist.

—John G. Harris, Esq., Post Master of the city of Lock Haven, was in town on Thursday. Our own excellent Post Master, John T. Johnson, Esq., took charge of the distinguished gentleman and made his brief visit as pleasant as possible.

—Rewarded at last. After spending a busy and useful lifetime in the service of his party, having seen his ancestry drop out, unrewarded, one by one, from the stage of action, Colonel J. Smith Barnhart has at last received a recognition of his ability as a lawyer and his acumen as a politician, by being appointed to the office of Commissioners' Clerk. The position was made vacant by the resignation of Major Harry Foster. The appointment is a good one, and we have no doubt that Mr. Barnhart will give entire satisfaction.

For the Republican.

A Spelling Bee at Unionville.—On Tuesday evening, April 27, there was quite a pleasant gathering in the main room of the Presbyterian Church of this place. The orthographical mania reached us and we had to succumb. Officers consisted of Samuel Brugger, President and Umpire; Mr. Blair, Vice President; Rev. Hughes, Pronouncer; Rev. Russel, Secretary. Rev Hughes and Mr. Brugger selected the words, about one thousand, and some of them regular "jaw-breakers." The class consisted of forty spellers, of which Miss Hannah Thompson and Mr. J. R. Rech were Captains. The prizes consisted of money and the successful consistants were Miss Thompson, Mrs. Hughes and J. G. Rich. They immediately handed over their winnings to the treasurer of the bee, to be applied to paying for the church yard fence. About sixteen dollars were realized. On last evening, 11th of this month, there was another spelling match at the same place, at which time the ladies were matched against the gentlemen, who "screened themselves behind petty offices" at the last bee had a chance to exhibit their boasted orthographical knowledge. We shall not, at this time, attempt personality, as to words spelled correctly, or incorrectly, or particularize upon this very pleasant occasion, but everything passed off nicely, all were pleased, and the spelling generally good.

Didn't Like the Steeple.—Shortly after Governor Curtin arrived home, he heard of the M. E. Church, to be built in this place during the present summer. He intimated to some of the members of that denomination that he had been in the habit of taking a little stock in all the churches built in Centre County. The intimation was well taken and, accordingly, on Friday last, the soliciting committee, headed by Rev. Miller, called upon the Governor, bringing with them the plans and drafts of the proposed structure, which he examined carefully, inquiring the use, size, shape and arrangement of everything about the building. He was well pleased with everything—for it will be a handsome structure—until he came to inspect the steeple. He wanted to know why they proposed having such a diminutive looking arrangement as that on the top of the church. They replied that it was only because it would be so much cheaper than a spire of the proper dimentions. "Well," said the Governor, "I'll give you five hundred dollars toward building your church, and if you run out of money before you get the right kind of a steeple on it, I'll put the steeple up myself." A more delighted set of committee-men was never seen.

Street Preaching.—Mr. K. A. Burnell, from Chicago, we believe, carried on a vigorous outdoor campaign against sinners, in this place, during last Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Monday. He was here about five years ago in company with that wonderful sacred vocalist, Sankey, who is singing with Moody, the evangelist, in London. Mr. Burnell held religious services in the Diamond on Friday evening; on Bishop street, Saturday evening, and at the railroad depot on Sunday evening. Besides these meetings, services were held at stated times during each of these days. The street meetings were well attended, and, no doubt, there were those who heard him there who have not seen the inside of a church for years. There must have been between two and three hundred persons in his congregation at the depot on Sunday evening. Mr. Burnell has a rather interesting way of proclaiming the truth and knows how to hold the crowd. We have no doubt that he is the means of accomplishing a great deal of good as he wanders around over the world, preaching on the street corners.

Col. Brown's Lecture.—On Tuesday evening Col. Brown delivered his lecture on "The claims of society upon young men." In addition to the lecture, the speaker gave a brief elecutionary display, reading several poems. This part of the entertainment was quite interesting. Among the poems read, were several from the graceful pen of our talented townsman, Mr. Joe W. Fury, of the Watchman. Among the latter was that sweet, plaintive poem entitled "Esther Wynn," which has found a place in the newspapers of every state in the union. The Colonel read another of Mr. Fury's poetical compositions entitled "The Field is white to Harvest" which he pronounced, and hosts of others who have admired its beauties, equal to Byron's best efforts. There was a pretty fair audience in the Court House and all seemed pleased with Mr. Brown's efforts. We did not learn what amount was realized.

——The Watchman has unearthed Rev. W. W. Hicks who used to be a Methodist preacher in this place during the war. Hicks is now a Democratic member of the Florida legislature and came within a few votes of being elected U. S. Senator. He was a Republican when here and a brilliant speaker, but, since he went south and joined the Democracy, he has turned out badly, until, now, he has sunk to the lowest stage of social existance, a Democratic member of a Democratic legislature.

——If Boalsburg can not get the R. R. it can at least boast of a "Spelling Bee." Rev. Mr. Hartsock has carried out a suggestion from some of our young folks, and last evening the excitement was up to such a pitch that the citizens actually agreed to meet and determine who is the best speller. Admission 15cts. Proceeds to be appropriated to the purchasing of an organ for the Lutheran Church. Mr. H. was fully prepared to discriminate between a spelling Bee and a Honey or Stinging Bee by the time he had hived his first swarm.

Destructive Fire at Milesburg.—On Wednesday afternoon last, Milesburg was visited by one of the most destructive fires that ever occurred in Centre County. Smoke was seen from this place, to rise in immense volumes in the neighborhood of Linn & McCoy's gap about four o'clock in the afternoon. Shortly after, a dispatch was received here asking the assistance of the Bellefonte fire department: that an immense fire was spreading rapidly, and that the entire lower end of the town was in danger of being consumed. This news was soon brought to the ears of our firemen who lost no time in getting their apparatus under way and on the road to Milesburg. A messenger arrived soon after the receipt of the dispatch, who reported that Green's Foundry & Machine shops, his large flouring-mill and and other buildings were on fire and that such a strong wind was blowing that immense loss was imminent. This news increased the excitement here and the 4.30 train was crowded with people, and the road was thronged with people in vehicles and on foot, all anxious to witness the conflagration. On arriving it was found that the fire originated about four o'clock, by sparks flying from the cupola of the Foundry through an open window into a loft in the Foundry where patterns were kept. Here it rapidly kindled into immense flames which broke through the roof and soon enveloped the building. Thence it spread to the machine and black smith shops, and afterward to the flouring-mill. Milesburg has no provision for battling fire. Men with buckets worked bravely and faithfully but with little or no effect. A stiff breeze still fanned the flames until the sight was terrible. The dry wood work of the structures crackled like flax. Bits of burning brands and showers of sparks were carried hither and thither. Every house in the vicinity was threatened. Every roof had it's quota of men with buckets of water. At one time every house on the opposite side of the street from the bridge was on fire, but the men on the roofs succeeded in saving them. Residents in the vicinity were rapidly moving out and taking their effects to a place of safety. The Foundry and machine shops were soon in ashes and the machinery in the flouring-mill kept falling with frightful crashes that begot volumes of flame which sent whirlwinds of smoke and sparks and burning fragments in every direction. Soon the wooden bridge over Bald Eagle creek was on fire. At this period the Undine fire engine and hose carriage arrived, being manned by members of both the Logan and Undine Companies of this place. They ran into position alongside the creek and in a few minutes were throwing a powerful stream on the burning bridge. When the bridge was put out of danger their efforts were directed at the mill, and, inside of an hour, the danger was passed. The burning ruins were drowned out as far as possible and the companies started homeward about nightfall. The Milesburgers worked faithfully, but were about exhausted when our Fire Companies arrived. Our boys as usual gave their best efforts to the work and did excellent service.

The losses are as follows: Joseph Green, large flouring-mill, foundry building, machine shop and blacksmith shop. Loss $30.000; no insurance. William Kerlin, lessee of flour-mill, about 1000 bushels wheat, a lot of flour, corn and other grain, besides about a like quantity belonging to other persons, in all this loss is estimated at about $2.500. No insurance on any of it. John Lonberger, lessee of Foundry and Machine shops, loses a valuable lot of tinner's tools and about 500 dollars worth of tinware which he had moved into the shop only the day before. Jonathan Bullock & Son, lost several sets of black-smithing tools, two wagons and a lot of lumber, probably a thousand dollars worth. Curtin's and Linn & McCoy's Iron Works lose a valuable lot of patterns. Strange as it may appear there was no insurance on any of the property destroyed.

——The Altoona District Methodist Episcopal Sunday School Convention, will be held at Curwensville, Pa., June 8, 9, 10. Pastors will please report the names of delegates as soon as possible to Rev. Mr. Young, Curwensville. District Stewards' annual meeting Wednesday June 9, at 1:30 P. M. A large attendance and an interesting time is anticipated.

COURT PROCEEDINGS.

SECOND WEEK.

Judges Mayer and Orvis, were both present this week, though Judge Mayer presided in all the trials by jury.

MONDAY, MAY 3.

Jno. Irwin, Jr., vs. Benj. Liggett, et al. equitable ejectment. This action was brought to recover a balance of purchase money due on some nine hundred acres of wild land sold to the defts. under an article of agreement. Defts claimed that there was not the quantity of land in three tracts which they were to have, and that there was a defect of title as to part of the land. The court, however, ruled that as by the article of agrecment the plff. only agreed to sell his interest in the lands it made no difference whether he had a title or not, nor whether the quantity held out. Judgment, accordingly, for plff. for $3717.70, Furst, Alexander and Bower, for plff; Beaver for deft.

TUESDAY, 4.

J. & G. Frasier vs. Hale & Co., debt. This suit was brought to recover the amount of a check for $572 drawn by C. W. Hale, who it was claimed, was a member of the firm of Hale & Co. at the time the check was drawn. Mr. C. G. Kessler, was the only deft; served in this case, and the only one whom it was sought to charge with the payment of the debt. The defence was that C. W. Hale was not a member of the firm, he merely inheriting firm assets from his father, but never being recognized by other members, and particularly by Mr. Kessler. Verdict for defts; Beaver and Hoy for plffs; Furst for defts.

Todd & Duncan, for the use of Wm. P. Duncan, vs. B. and F. B. Liggett, debt. The plff. claimed for a balance on account, chiefly for two water-wheels furnished for the mill of the defts. The defence was that the wheels were not as good as represented, and did not do the work that was expected of them. Verdict for plffs. for $467.67. Beaver, for plffs; Yocum and Alexander for defts.

WEDNESDAY, 5.

Lloyd, Caldwell & Co. vs. J. S. Reed, & Co. This suit was founded upon five promissory notes for $1.000 each, and a draft for $5.000. The transactions between the parties in which Mr. Cohn, of Philadelphia, was largely concerned, were numerous and complicated, extending over a considerable period of time. Verdict for plffs. for $5184.34, Beaver and Ashurst, of Philadelphia, for plffs; Furst and Alexander, for defts.

On Thursday the court sat awhile to to hear arguments, motions, etc., and then adjourned for the term.

——At a meeting of the members of the Presbyterian Church of Beech Creek assembled for prayer, it was unanimously agreed that the following minutes be adopted:

That we, as professing christians, do express our thanks and sense of gratitude to the Hon. John H. Orvis, for the fair, just and impartial manner, in which he discharged his judicial duties at the last session of the courts in Centre county, in the matter of granting license, believing that his example in the administration of justice will do much to correct the evil of intemperance in our midst.

That while it was his duty under the law to grant license for the sale of liquor, yet in the granting thereof, he exercised a wise and impartial judgment, withholding all licenses, so far as in his power, when the applicant was a man of unfit character, and only granting them with the distinct understanding, announced from the bench, that any violation of the law would be considered good ground to revoke the same.

We also tender our thanks to A. O. Furst, Esq., for the able and fearless manner in which he presented to the court the "appeal of the ladies of Bellefonte," and for defending said appeal in such terms as to command the gratitude of the entire christian community.

Scalded.—Oneta, a little daughter of Mr. Akers, living on the pike, below town, was badly scalded last Friday evening. She ran against her mother, who was carrying a pan of boiling water, the contents striking the lower part of the face and flowing over her body. Being clad in flannels, which were difficult to remove, the child was so seriously scalded, that when the clothes were removed, the flesh peeled off with the flannel. The child suffered terribly, and for two or three days her life was despaired of. We are glad to learn, however, that she is out of danger, and slowly recovering.
